Red Chinese A-Tests Could Foul U.S. Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The expected explosion of a nuclear test bomb by Red China threatens new risks and difficulties for the United States in trying to keep the war in South Viet Nam in bounds and eventually to win a limited victory there.

The chief risk foreseen here is that Red Chinese triumph in the nuclear field may make it much more difficult for the United States to persuade Red China and North Viet Nam that they can't win in South Viet Nam and will have to pay an increasing cost to keep the war going.

The United States is confronted by two overriding problems in Viet Nam.

The most immediate and potentially the most dangerous in the short run is the problem of preventing a political collapse in the battered and war-weary little country which has been rocked by a series of government crises during the past 11 months.

The present U.S. answer to this problem is to provide all-out support to Premier Nguyen Khanh in the hope that he will prove capable of guiding his divided and embattled people through the present government crisis.

A broad outline of U.S. policy was given Tuesday in a speech in Tokyo by Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy, who is presently on a visit to Japan and Korea. Bundy is one of the top Washington officials directly responsible for U.S. policy in Southeast Asia.

"We do not aim at overthrowing the Communist regime of North Viet Nam," Bundy said, "but rather in inducing it to call off the war it desires and supports in South Viet Nam."

Bundy also said that expansion of the war beyond South Viet Nam is not a course of action which the United States wants but one which "could be forced upon us by the increased external pressures of the Communists," including a rising scale of infiltration.

The only apparent answer to the problem of how to induce the North Vietnamese and Red Chinese to call off their support for the guerrillas operating in South Viet Nam lies in putting them under actual or threatened military pressures from U.S. power. That is a major reason

Some Auto Aides Defy Court Order

CLEVELAND (AP) — Members of United Auto Workers Local 1250 were returning to their jobs today at Ford Motor Co.'s two big engine plants and foundry in suburban Brook Park in compliance with a court order to end their wildcat strike.

However, some 900 members of the 7,800-member local voted Tuesday night to continue the walkout in defiance of the court order and orders of local and international union leaders to return to work.

Daniel Clemmer, a union member, said the group agreed to keep what he called an invisible picket line around the three plants until certain conditions are met by Ford.

Union leaders had been trying to get the strikers to go back to work since the walkout started early Friday in protest against the suspension of a union committeeman for violating company rules.

Tuesday afternoon the company obtained from Common Pleas Court Judge Harry Jaffe an order barring picketing at the plants and instructing the workers to go back to their jobs. The picket lines were withdrawn.

why there has been so much talk this year of bombings in North Viet Nam.

Red China's explosion of a nuclear test device, as speculatively forecast Tuesday by Secretary of State Dean Rusk, would not change the military balance which exists in Southeast Asia. The Chinese Communists are still a good many years away from becoming a true nuclear power, in the judgment of the best informed authorities here.

But the mere achievement of a nuclear explosion could engender a cocky, confident attitude on the part of the Communist leadership which would make them much harder to induce to call off their support for the Red Guerrillas in South Viet Nam.

Major Atom Power Role Seen Far Off for China

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. sources believe that although Red China now has the capability of setting off its first atomic explosion it is still years away from becoming a major nuclear power.

Thursday, the Peking regime's 15th anniversary, is the earliest date in Washington speculation on the timing of China's nuclear debut.

This guess is based on the Communists' penchant for unveiling new developments on their anniversaries. Other estimates ranged into 1965.

While eventual Communist Chinese success in building an atomic bomb has been predicted for years, an unusual statement by Secretary of State Dean Rusk Tuesday disclosed a recent conclusion by U.S. strategists that Peking's preparations have reached the point where it can fire its nuclear device at any time.

U.S. sources declined to specify what new intelligence data has convinced them that the Chinese Reds have arrived at the edge of an atomic blast.

But having reached this conclusion, it was said, the State Department put out Rusk's statement as a way of toning down the reverberations from a Chinese nuclear explosion when it does come.

Rusk said China's first atomic shot "might occur in the near future" and if so, "we shall know about it and will make the information public."

"The United States," he added, "has fully anticipated the possibility of Peking's entry into the nuclear weapons field and has taken it into full account in determining our military posture and our own nuclear weapons program."

U.S. sources made these points: —The initial nuclear test would still leave Red China a long way to go before achieving a first-class nuclear arsenal.

By exploding a bomb now, Peking would use up most of its present atomic fuel supply. Its fuel manufacturing capability is limited and years more would be needed to build up a stockpile. The Chinese have yet to develop the sophisticated rockets which an atomic power nation needs to deliver its warheads.

—Peking could use its early atomic development for propaganda and nuclear blackmail against non-atomic Asian neighbors.

—China's first nuclear explosion may be relatively small — the first U.S. test in 1945 was 19 kilotons — and is expected to take place above ground.

—U.S. monitors are confident they can spot a Chinese explosion above ground. How long after a Chinese explosion the U.S. announcement of it would come depends on how much cross checking of the monitoring information is required.

East, Gulf Coast Dock Strike Near

NEW YORK (AP) — Presidential mediators worked against the clock today trying to prevent a strike by 60,000 dock workers in ports from Maine to Texas at midnight.

A walkout by the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association would tie up more than 500 United States and foreign-flag ships.

A partial break in the three-month deadlock in contract negotiations came early today when the employers accepted — with some modifications — the long list of settlement proposals made by the presidential mediation panel.

The union negotiators rejected the package.

The major obstacle to settlement has been the proposal for gradual reduction of the size of general cargo work gangs from 20 to 17 men in exchange for a guaranteed annual wage for longshoremen.

The union has held fast against any cut in work gang size.

Employer negotiators have refused for a long time to settle on any other issues until agreement on the work gang size had been reached. The employers contend that modern methods of handling cargo require even less than 17 men in a work gang.

Another Coup Seen Possible In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A controversial member of South Viet Nam's ruling military triumvirate today was reported preparing to leave the country Thursday as Premier Nguyen Khanh sought to safeguard himself against another coup attempt.

A high government source said Lt. Gen. Tran Thien Khiem would go to Europe for several weeks, ostensibly to thank Western governments for supporting South Viet Nam's battle against the Communist Viet Cong.

It also was reported that Col. Pham Ngoc Thao, Khanh's press aide and a target of the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh on Sept. 13, would accompany Khiem to Europe.

Khiem, a Catholic in predominantly Buddhist Viet Nam, had been looked on until recently as one of the most powerful men in the country.

Reports circulated early this month that Khanh was under Buddhist pressure to get rid of Khiem and that the premier planned to send him on a goodwill tour of Southeast Asia until feeling subsided.

The premier dropped Khiem as defense minister and took over the post himself.

After the unsuccessful attempt to overthrow Khanh, Khiem came under fire from the group of young generals — known as the Young Turks — whose refusal to join the rebellion saved Khanh.

The government source said Saturday the young officers had demanded again that Khanh exile Khiem and dismiss five other older generals. The source said today the Young Turks had given Khanh until Oct. 25 to purge the officer corps.

The government news agency published a communique today, purportedly from the young officers, denying that they had given Khanh an ultimatum. They said they "earnestly hope" the government would soon satisfy their request "for a purge of corrupt elements from the leading echelon of the military and the administration."

The government source said the leader of the Young Turks, Air Force Commander Nguyen Cao Ky, could count on support from the navy, the marines and some airborne units as well as from his own officers.

200 Collegians Get White House Invites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 200 college student leaders, many of them presidents of student bodies, have been invited to a buffet supper and reception at the White House Saturday evening with President and Mrs. Johnson.

The President, a onetime Texas school teacher, previously honored outstanding high school pupils at a comparable White House party.

TRAINING HIS SIGHTS — Surrounded by banners, GOP presidential candidate Barry Goldwater makes the campaign's first whistle-stop with a visit to Marietta, O., where he attacked President Johnson as the "chief enemy of the social security system." Hamrick Youth Fund Supports Bike Safety

Board of Directors Earmarks $75 for County Program

The John Hamrick Youth Memorial Fund board of directors today unanimously voted to support the county-wide bicycle safety program as its first project.

The board agreed to provide up to $75 to further promote the bike safety movement throughout the county.

Because the death of John Hamrick following a bicycle-automobile collision prompted the beginning of the fund, the board felt the bike safety program is a worthy initial project.

Members of the board are George Hamrick, Earl Palm, Robert Wood, Robert Waverling and Don Archer. Palm was named chairman of the board today. Archer vice chairman and Hamrick, secretary-treasurer.

THE Youth Memorial Fund has grown to $1,654.80.

At an earlier meeting, it was decided to direct 10 per cent of all donations plus interest from investments toward the operating fund. The other 90 per cent is invested at 4 per cent interest. Under this system, more than $200 will be available this year.

The money will be used to benefit the youth — both boys and girls — of the county.

Auto Strike End Unseen Immediately

DETROIT (AP) — Chances appeared slim today for settlement before next week of a nationwide strike that has cut off production of General Motors' 1965 automobiles.

Top negotiators for both GM and the United Auto Workers Union indicated Tuesday that they did not expect to reach agreement on national and local differences by this weekend.

If prolonged, the strike could have a serious effect on the nation's booming economy. GM said that hourly-rated employees in plants struck by the UAW are losing more than $7 million in daily wages.

A major stumbling block to getting some quarter-million workers back on the assembly lines was more than 17,000 local at-the-plant demands covering such subjects as company-furnished coveralls, locker rooms and parking lots.

The UAW called the strike last Friday despite virtual agreement on an economic package similar to one already accepted by the union from GM's chief competitors — Ford and Chrysler.

It calls for higher pensions as an early retirement incentive, longer vacations, additional holidays, increased wages and other improvements.

Los Angeles Relief Chiefs Order: Work or Get Off

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles County relief program has been ordered altered to include this provision: "Work — or get off relief."

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, which ordered the welfare changes Tuesday, even has a type of work in mind: field hand labor.

Such work on California farms is now done mostly by Mexican nationals imported for the purpose under the state's bracero program.

Efforts to induce unemployed persons to take over the work — most of it so-called stoop labor, at $1.00 to $1.25 an hour — have failed. The bracero program ends Dec. 31.

Supervisor Ernest E. Debs said: "We have a lot of able-bodied boys on the relief program. They will not go to school or learn a trade. It seems about time to say: 'Either work or you will not get food.'"

The supervisors enacted a five-point program which brought varying opinions from state and labor officials. A state official said the plan sounded legal. A labor spokesman expressed doubts.

Supervisor Kenneth Kahn estimated Los Angeles County will have 30,000 unemployed youths available to take over the bracero jobs when the labor-importation plan expires Dec. 31.

The supervisors said the new regulations would make these requirements of employers hiring from relief rolls:

1. That adequate sanitary facilities and other acceptable employment conditions be provided.

2. That the minimum wage be at least $1.25.

3. That, if possible, steady employment should be provided.

4. Adequate transportation shall be provided to the farms.

5. Recipients of public assistance will not be required to work under unusual circumstances, such as illness or other difficult conditions in their families.

Accused Ax-Slayer Said Freed by Clinic Too Soon

DETROIT (AP) — Accused ax-murderer William Gravin was released from a mental hospital last year largely because of the pleadings of his wife, the institution's clinical director said Tuesday.

Gravin's wife, Bette, 40, was one of seven relatives he is accused of killing.

According to Prosecutor William Lang, Gravin admitted the ax and hammer slayings of his wife, his daughter Bette Sue, 5; and his stepchildren Ben, 17; Judy, 16; Dorrie, 15; Paul, 12; and Walter, 10.

Gravin stood mute at his arraignment Tuesday on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of Judy.

"We've got as much of a court case with one victim as with seven," Lang said.

Authorities sought a motive for the bloody slaying.

Psychiatrists found "homicidal tendencies" in Gravin in 1961, when he was examined following a knife attack on his cousin's wife.

The felonious assault charge resulted in three years' probation and a provision that Gravin take psychiatric treatments at Pontiac State Hospital, a mental institution.

The hospital clinical director, Robert Braun, said that Gravin's premature release in July 1963 resulted in part from repeated urgings by the patient's wife.

Braun said the woman "commented on the notable change in his disposition" as the treatments continued. Braun also said a thorough study of Gravin's records just two months ago showed "no mental weaknesses that might have made him dangerous to society."

Lang said marital difficulties may have been involved in the slayings.

The seven bodies were found Tuesday morning when a Madison Heights patrolman, Ronald Pearce, was sent to the Gravin home after a tip from Earl Stone.

Stone phoned authorities and said Gravin had told him: "Call the police. I killed my family in that house last weekend."

Police said each of the bodies bore a note identifying it and saying: "I love you. I'm sorry. It couldn't be helped."

Real Truth On Viet Nam Said Hidden

WITH GOLDWATER IN OHIO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater accused President Johnson today of hiding the truth about South Viet Nam "behind a smokescreen of defeat and deliberate lying by this administration."

Whistle-stopping through industrial Ohio, the Republican Presidential nominee challenged Johnson to "come clean, tell the truth, answer the crucial question of what we are doing in Viet Nam."

Goldwater spoke to a crowd estimated at 7,000 in Middletown and to one about that big in Springfield. In between, he told an estimated 15,000 people in Dayton the administration campaign policy is "lie and lie and elect and elect."

Goldwater fired off his blast at Johnson's Viet Nam policies in a statement prepared for a rally at Columbus. He called the guerrilla struggle in the southeast Asian nation, "Johnson's war."

Goldwater said newspapers are full of bad news about Viet Nam "but they are totally bare of any news or any truth on the situation from the President of the United States."

"The word that something is badly, even crucially, wrong in Viet Nam keeps leaking out," Goldwater said. "Now it's pouring out."

Before a cheering crowd which packed the downtown square in Dayton, the Republican nominee said the "wizards in Washington" are keeping the truth about government affairs from the people.

"We have today in this country managed news or the calculated lie," Goldwater said.

Earlier, in Middletown, he declared "there is no magic in the federal government" that ever can create a job in industry.

Government controls, the GOP standardbearer said, can stifle industry.

He pointed to White House intervention in the steel price dispute in 1962, and said it denied the industry a price rise that "they have to have."

Goldwater took a crack at foreign economic aid, too.

"We've had the mistaken idea for too many years that our foreign economy aid programs alone will solve the problems of all the nations of the world. . ."

He said the right way to solve them at home and abroad is with American technical know-how and with the free enterprise system.

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — President Johnson tried out the Strategic Air Command's communications network during his visit in the underground headquarters here Tuesday.

"This is the President. If you can hear me, give me verification," the chief executive said.

His voice was heard at approximately 75 SAC unit command posts throughout North America and in areas of the free world and in dozens of missile launch control centers in the United States, but there was no response.

"That's a one-way conversation," Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, explained. "We give commands and they follow orders. They're not interested in talking back."

Red Chinese A-Tests Could Foul U.S. Plans

Accused Ax-Slayer Said Freed by Clinic Too Soon

DETROIT (AP) — Accused ax-murderer William Gravlin was released from a mental hospital last year largely because of the pleadings of his wife, the institution's clinical director said Tuesday.

Gravlin's wife, Bette, 40, was one of seven relatives he is accused of killing.

According to Prosecutor William Lang, Gravlin admitted the ax and hammer slayings of his wife, his daughter Bette Sue, 5; and his stepchildren Ben, 17; Judy, 16; Dorrie, 15; Paul, 12; and Walter, 10.

Gravlin stood mute at his arraignment Tuesday on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of Judy.

"We've got as much of a court case with one victim as with seven," Lang said.

Authorities sought a motive for the bloody slaying.

Psychiatrists found "homicidal tendencies" in Gravlin in 1961, when he was examined following a knife attack on his cousin's wife.

The felonious assault charge resulted in three years' probation and a provision that Gravlin take psychiatric treatments at Pontiac State Hospital, a mental institution.

The hospital clinical director, Robert Braun, said that Gravlin's premature release in July 1963 resulted in part from repeated urgings by the patient's wife.

Braun said the woman "commented on the notable change in his disposition" as the treatments continued. Braun also said a thorough study of Gravlin's records just two months ago showed "no mental weaknesses that might have made him dangerous to society."

Lang said marital difficulties may have been involved in the slayings.

The seven bodies were found Tuesday morning when a Madison Heights patrolman, Ronald Pearce, was sent to the Gravlin home after a tip from Earl Stone.

Stone phoned authorities and said Gravlin had told him: "Call the police. I killed my family in that house last weekend."

Police said each of the bodies bore a note identifying it and saying: "I love you. I'm sorry. It couldn't be helped."

Real Truth On Viet Nam Said Hidden

WITH GOLDWATER IN OHIO (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater accused President Johnson today of hiding the truth about South Viet Nam "behind a smokescreen of defeat and deliberate lying by this administration."

Whistle-stopping through industrial Ohio, the Republican Presidential nominee challenged Johnson to "come clean, tell the truth, answer the crucial question of what we are doing in Viet Nam."

Goldwater spoke to a crowd estimated at 7,000 in Middletown and to one about that big in Springfield. In between, he told an estimated 15,000 people in Dayton the administration campaign policy is "lie and lie and elect and elect."

Goldwater fired off his blast at Johnson's Viet Nam policies in a statement prepared for a rally at Columbus. He called the guerrilla struggle in the southeast Asian nation, "Johnson's war."

Goldwater said newspapers are full of bad news about Viet Nam "but they are totally bare of any news or any truth on the situation from the President of the United States."

"The word that something is badly, even crucially, wrong in Viet Nam keeps leaking out," Goldwater said. "Now it's pouring out."

Before a cheering crowd which packed the downtown square in Dayton, the Republican nominee said the "wizards in Washington" are keeping the truth about government affairs from the people.

"We have today in this country managed news or the calculated lie," Goldwater said.

Earlier, in Middletown, he declared "there is no magic in the federal government" that ever can create a job in industry.

Government controls, the GOP standardbearer said, can stifle industry.

He pointed to White House intervention in the steel price dispute in 1962, and said it denied the industry a price rise that "they have to have."

Goldwater took a crack at foreign economic aid, too.

"We've had the mistaken idea for too many years that our foreign economy aid programs alone will solve the problems of all the nations of the world. . ."

He said the right way to solve them at home and abroad is with American technical know-how and with the free enterprise system.

LBJ Says 'Hello,' Nobody Answers

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — President Johnson tried out the Strategic Air Command's communications network during his visit in the underground headquarters here Tuesday.

"This is the President. If you can hear me, give me verification," the chief executive said.

His voice was heard at approximately 75 SAC unit command posts throughout North America and in areas of the free world and in dozens of missile launch control centers in the United States, but there was no response.

"That's a one-way conversation," Gen. Thomas S. Power, SAC commander, explained. "We give commands and they follow orders. They're not interested in talking back."

2 Historic Measures OK'd by Catholic Chiefs

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council voted approval today to two historic measures — the recognition of shared authority between Pope and bishops, and the creation of a permanent body of married and single deacons.

The approval of the measures came in an over-all vote on the third chapter of the council schema "de ecclesia," on the nature of the Church. The council voted on individual clauses over the past several days.

Police Seek Man Accused Of Shoplifting

Circleville Police are investigating a shoplifting incident committed yesterday at King's Department Store, W. Main St.
The store manager said an unidentified man, about 5-10 in height, was caught shoplifting. He said five pair of ladies hose were found in the subject's possession.
The manager took the hose from the man and attempted to hold him until local police were notified. However, the subject pushed the manager and ran from the store.
According to witnesses, the fleeing man jumped into a car parked in a nearby alley where another man was waiting. They said the men drove off, but not before a license plate number was obtained.

A REGISTRATION check disclosed the license was issued to Donald Cannaday, Columbus, for a 1956 Imperial. However, the two men were in a 1957 Cadillac.
City Chief Robert Temple checked with Columbus Police who are still investigating. The local probe was conducted by Patrolman Jack Mills.

Community Fund at Work

Fund Able To Aid Needy Through Salvation Army

REUNION — Here is a small reunion of some of the Pickaway County youngsters who attended this year's Salvation Army Summer Camp. The Salvation Army is one of the local agencies supported by the Community Fund.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles acquainting residents of Pickaway County with the functions of Community Fund participating agencies. The campaign this year will be conducted Sept. 28 to Oct. 11. The goal is $38,788.

By BARBARA JOHNSON

When you hear the name "Salvation Army", what do you think of?

Do you think of the used furniture store in downtown Circleville? Do you envision the big red truck traveling through Pickaway County collecting discarded furniture and clothing? Or do you picture cheery Christmas baskets of food and toys being distributed to needy families?

The Salvation Army carries on all of these activities, plus many more, right here in Pickaway County — with the aid of public funds. By giving to the Pickaway County Community Fund, persons contribute to a year-round, countywide program of services designed to help those who need it when they need it.

Pretty ambitious sounding? Don't think your dollar will stretch that far? Well, here are a few examples of what your greenback accomplished through the Salvation Army last year: Assisted a total of 490 persons in Pickaway County. Of these 50 persons in need were given food, rent payments or clothing; 106 were provided with furniture, medical and dental care; 13 families were furnished with transportation;

Fifteen underprivileged children were sent to a Salvation Army sponsored camp for 10 days of healthful activity; Meals and lodging were furnished to 226 transients passing through the county;

Seven needy families enjoyed a brighter Christmas because baskets of food and toys were provided by local merchants and the Salvation Army.

Sound like a lot for your money? Here are the details: The purpose of the Salvation Army is to maintain a program of welfare and social services for individuals and families in need of emergency and supplementary aid. Because stress is placed on immediate assistance, Salvation Army services implement help given to the needy by community welfare agencies.

All local services emanate from the Pickaway County Service Unit Committee. This is a 12-member body, consisting of unpaid volunteers, that cooperate with local police and other Community Fund agencies in locating points of need.

Once need is established, the committee administrators aid from funds allotted the Salvation

Army by the Pickaway County Community Fund.

This year's service unit committee officers are: Dr. Carl Heffelfinger, chairman, Mrs. Doris Wiggins, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Gerhardt, welfare secretary; and Charles G. Gerhardt, treasurer.

An annual feature of Salvation Army supplementary services is the camping program for underprivileged youngsters. This summer 17 county boys and girls aged 7-12 attended a two-week session at the camp near Ft. Ancient.

One of 54 Salvation Army camps, the facility emphasizes good food, healthful surroundings, constructive recreation and guidance — as well as the vacation of a lifetime for these children.

Life at the camp is typically "camp". The youngsters play, eat and sleep in an atmosphere of fun and relaxation. They swim, hike, play games, build bonfires, sing songs. Yet when asked the thing they liked best there, children invariably answered, "the good food."

Another area of service concerns the Salvation Army outlet store located at 132 E. Franklin St. Few people know what becomes of the discarded furniture and clothing that is collected by the red Salvation Army trucks.

After canvassing Pickaway County, the trucks transport their cargo to one of 125 Salvation Army social service centers. There the household items, the outgrown clothing, and the old furniture provide work for homeless men in need of social guidance and rehabilitation.

In turn the repaired articles are sold through thrift stores such as the one in Circleville, to individuals, in lower income brackets, enabling them to purchase at lower than normal cost. Through this method the service centers become self-supporting while both men and materials are salvaged.

When you stop to think of it, the public's dollar goes far when given to the Pickaway County Community Fund. In partnership with the Salvation Army it can do a great deal to combat the material, mental, and physical want surrounding us.

The need is here in Pickaway County. The Salvation Army exists to fill that need. How about lending a hand?

Police Seek Man Accused Of Shoplifting

Circleville Police are investigating a shoplifting incident committed yesterday at King's Department Store, W. Main St. The store manager said an unidentified man, about 5-10 in height, was caught shoplifting. He said five pair of ladies hose were found in the subject's possession.
The manager took the hose from the man and attempted to hold him until local police were notified. However, the subject pushed the manager and ran from the store.
According to witnesses, the fleeing man jumped into a car parked in a nearby alley where another man was waiting. They said the men drove off, but not before a license plate number was obtained.

A REGISTRATION check disclosed the license was issued to Donald Cannaday, Columbus, for a 1956 Imperial. However, the two men were in a 1957 Cadillac.

City Chief Robert Temple checked with Columbus Police who are still investigating. The local probe was conducted by Patrolman Jack Mills.

Community Fund at Work

Fund Able To Aid Needy Through Salvation Army

REUNION — Here is a small reunion of some of the Pickaway County youngsters who attended this year's Salvation Army Summer Camp. The Salvation Army is one of the local agencies supported by the Community Fund.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles acquainting residents of Pickaway County with the functions of Community Fund participating agencies. The campaign this year will be conducted Sept. 28 to Oct. 11. The goal is $38,788.

By BARBARA JOHNSON
When you hear the name "Salvation Army", what do you think of?

Do you think of the used furniture store in downtown Circleville? Do you envision the big red truck traveling through Pickaway County collecting discarded furniture and clothing? Or do you picture cheery Christmas baskets of food and toys being distributed to needy families?

The Salvation Army carries on all of these activities, plus many more, right here in Pickaway County — with the aid of public funds. By giving to the Pickaway County Community Fund, persons contribute to a year round, countywide program of services designed to help those who need it when they need it.

Pretty ambitious sounding? Don't think your dollar will stretch that far? Well, here are a few examples of what your greenback accomplished through the Salvation Army last year: Assisted a total of 490 persons in Pickaway County. Of these 50 persons in need were given food, rent payments or clothing; 106 were provided with furniture, medical and dental care; 13 families were furnished with transportation;

Fifteen underprivileged children were sent to a Salvation Army sponsored camp for 10 days of healthful activity; Meals and lodging were furnished to 226 transients passing through the county;

Seventy needy families enjoyed a brighter Christmas because baskets of food and toys were provided by local merchants and the Salvation Army.

Sound like a lot for your money? Here are the details: The purpose of the Salvation Army is to maintain a program of welfare and social services for individuals and families in need of emergency and supplementary aid. Because stress is placed on immediate assistance, Salvation Army services implement help given to the needy by community welfare agencies.

All local services emanate from the Pickaway County Service Unit Committee. This is a 12-member body, consisting of unpaid volunteers, that cooperate with local police and other Community Fund agencies in locating points of need.

Once need is established, the committee administers aid from funds allotted the Salvation

Army by the Pickaway County Community Fund.

This year's service unit committee officers are: Dr. Carl Heffelfinger, chairman, Mrs. Doris Wiggins, secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Gerhardt, welfare secretary; and Charles G. Gerhardt, treasurer.

An annual feature of Salvation Army supplementary services is the camping program for underprivileged youngsters. This summer 17 county boys and girls aged 7-12 attended a two-week session at the camp near Ft. Ancient.

One of 54 Salvation Army camps, the facility emphasizes good food, healthful surroundings, constructive recreation and guidance — as well as the vacation of a lifetime for these children.

Life at the camp is typically "camp". The youngsters play, eat and sleep in an atmosphere of fun and relaxation. They swim, hike, play games, build bonfires, sing songs. Yet when asked the thing they liked best there, children invariably answered, "the good food."

Another area of service concerns the Salvation Army outlet store located at 132 E. Franklin St. Few people know what becomes of the discarded furniture and clothing that is collected by the red Salvation Army trucks.

After canvassing Pickaway County, the trucks transport their cargo to one of 125 Salvation Army social service centers. There the household items, the outgrown clothing, and the old furniture provide work for homeless men in need of social guidance and rehabilitation.

In turn the repaired articles are sold through thrift stores such as the one in Circleville, to individuals, in lower income brackets, enabling them to purchase at lower than normal cost. Through this method the service centers become self-supporting while both men and materials are salvaged.

When you stop to think of it, the public's dollar goes far when given to the Pickaway County Community Fund. In partnership with the Salvation Army it can do a great deal to combat the material, mental, and physical want surrounding us.

The need is here in Pickaway County. The Salvation Army exists to fill that need. How about lending a hand?

The United States receives scientific and engineering talent each year equivalent to the output of two average universities. More than three per cent of its scientific manpower came from other countries.

Nothing new in academic circles, this "brain drain" has been going on since World War II. Countries losing some of their most valuable manpower to the United States have tried restricting emigration, propagandizing in the U.S. for return of their nationals, and offering greater salary and other inducements to keep them at home.

Still they leave, and most of them come to the shores of North America. America's gain, however, is frequently a distressing loss at home. In the years 1957-61 South American countries lost to the U. S. 1,837 engineers and scientists, and Asian migration during the same period was 2,142.

These numbers pale into insignificance in the armies of U. S. professionals, but back home they represented a high percentage of the educated elite. Even Britain, which has one of the best developed university systems, is hurting because of its scientific manpower drain.

There are many reasons why scientists from all over the world wish to come to the United States to work. The space program, for example, has opened a wide array of new vistas to challenge the best of the world's scientific talent. These opportunities are available in no other country except the Soviet Union, and it is a good bet that without the iron hand of coercion and blackmail to stay them, an exodus of Soviet scientists would also be underway.

Salaries and professional freedom are other reasons given by scientists for coming to the U.S. And prestige is rapidly becoming a dominant reason for the immigration. U. S. universities and laboratories have overtaken the once fashionable centers of learning in Europe.

The growth of science in the United States has been dynamic in the last several decades. As long as it continues this rapid pace, it will be a magnet for top talent from all over the world.

Doomsday Postponed

What a difference a couple of days make. First, the Soviet Union was supposed to have some horrendous kind of new weapon — a terror bomb, perhaps even a doomsday device. Premier Khrushchev mentioned it to Japanese visitors, and his remarks were interpreted as a threat to the Red Chinese.

But two days later Khrushchev said it was all a mistake, that he was misquoted. He said that he wasn't threatening anybody and, while the Soviets do have a new weapon, it isn't a terrible kind of new nuclear bomb, and whatever it is it doesn't have unlimited power.

Meanwhile, President Johnson was also talking about weapons. He says the United States has two new weapons systems that can intercept and destroy armed satellites circling the earth, and also a new kind of radar that can look around the curve of the earth.

So, in the space of 48 hours, the arms race has heated up, cooled off, and ended up about where it was. If Khrushchev does have a new weapon, the U.S. apparently can shoot it down, if it's the kind that orbits the earth. If it's the kind that's delivered by missile, the U. S. apparently will be able to see it coming sooner and presumably can defend against it.

The arms race goes on, and there is still no weapon for which there is no defense, actual or potential. It has been thus ever since man first made a shield to protect against the spear. Against the bullet, there is armor. Against the missile, the anti-missile missile.

Ill-Mannered Women Decried

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It happens at least a million times a day in America. Every day.

A man and a woman inadvertently bump into each other. Neither is to blame.

But what happens?

"Excuse me, ma'am," the man says, and steps aside.

And what does the woman do?

Well, in a great majority of cases she either glares through the male miscreant as if he didn't exist, or else summarily dismisses him with a surly remark, such as, "You could at least look where you're going."

And as she strides on in feminine triumph she leaves behind her an embittered man in whose soul there has withered another petal on the flower of chivalry.

No matter how often they are confronted with the problem, men can't quite reconcile themselves to the bad public manners of women who really should know better.

We all are familiar with the old story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Dr. Jekyll was an essential kind man, a scientist dedicated to the service of humanity. But every time he took a nip from a smoking brew in his laboratory, he emerged a beast. The moral, I have always supposed, is: If you have to drink, but it in a bar — don't make it in the basement.

But this famous 19th century tale has had an infamous 20th century sequel. It is the story of Mrs. Jekyll and Mrs. Hyde.

Mrs. Jekyll is a fine wife and mother. At home she sets an excellent example for her children. People love to be invited to her home, because she is a gracious hostess, attentive to their needs and solicitous of their welfare. As they leave, her men guests often murmur, "That lucky Dr. Jekyll — to have such a wonderful woman as his wife."

But when Mrs. Jekyll leaves her home — no matter whether she has had a nip or two from a bottle in her kitchen laboratory — a sudden change comes over her.

She turns into Mrs. Hyde.

Gone is her sweet courtesy, her gentle airs, her consideration for others. A baleful transformation has taken place.

Outwardly, she still looks to other women like Mrs. Jekyll. But to men she encounters she looks like Mrs. Hyde — an unpredictable monster with the manners of a fishwife and the conduct of a sabre-toothed tigress.

She prowls the streets and stores poking strange men in their eyes with her umbrella, stepping on their toes with her spiked heels, elbowing them aside in restaurants, rushing ahead of them to get a taxi.

After a hard day of abusing and bruising all men who happen to stand in her path, she returns home, and takes off the mask of Mrs. Hyde. When Dr. Jekyll enters, there is sweet, angel-faced Mrs. Jekyll, waiting to put on his slippers.

But why does Mrs. Hyde act this way to men in public? Some say it's because her shoes are too tight. Some say it's because she just secretly hates and represents the natural superiority of man over woman.

Whatever the reason, most men are getting awfully tired of the Mrs. Hydies — and the Miss Hydies — of this world. They are not going to get away with it forever.

There'll come a day!

Try and Stop Me

AN OLD-TIMER was having his first medical check-up in a decade. "You're in great shape," was the doctor's verdict. "You ought to live to be ninety." "Heck," said his patient, "I'm ninety now."

"See," exulted the medic. "What did I tell you?"

After two big-name football coaches had been chivied into resigning by alumni of a big Eastern university who considered anything but an all-winning season a disgrace, the late Herman Hickman agreed to take the job. "What are you going to do about those pesky alumni?" he was asked. "My intention," Hickman announced, "is to keep them sullen but not mutinous."

At an East Side hash house a dissatisfied patron pointed out to a waiter, "This is supposed to be an oyster stew, but there's not one blank oyster in it." Unabashed, the waiter pointed out, "The man at the next table's having an Irish stew. Do you think he expects to find an Irishman in it?"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

Q: s there a safe home remedy for stomach ache?

A: Too many people have a tendency to take a cathartic or an enema at the first sign of a smach eche. This is potentially dangerous especially if the pendix is the offender.

Before a nny treatment is started, the exact cause should be determined. Dietary indiscretion, menstrual cramps or simple constipation can usually be relieved by known familiar methods.

Intense and severe pain with or without fever, deserves consultation with the family physician. Often he can evaluate the importance of the situation even by telephone, and can make simple, safe suggestions for pain relief.

Then by reporting to him at regular intervals, your doctor can determine the need for examination and further study.

Q: What is the BCG, vaccine for tuberculosis?

A: BCG stands for the Bacillus Calmette-Guerin, named for its discoverers.

Some degree of immunity against tuberculosis is said to have been produced by BCG. This method of immunization resembles the technique of smallpox vaccination.

There is still diversification of opinion by groups of physicians about its value.

In recent months it has again been under critical study by international scientists under the supervision of the World Health Organization.

Q: What are the advantages of breast-feeding a newborn infant?

A: With today's pasteurized milk, homogenized and supplemented with vitamins and minerals, the nutritional content of cow's milk and mother's milk are almost at a par.

Probably the greatest advantage is the intense psychological bond that is established between the mother and infant.

There is an increasing trend especially among mothers with psychological awareness, to breast-feed babies.

From the physical aspect, the uterus tends to resume its normal size somewhat more quickly if the baby is breast-fed. There is no justification for the fear-producing myth that breast-feeding can produce breast cancer.

Q: What is meant by "butterfly disease"?

A: This is the casual name for a skin condition called "Lupus Erythematosus." The skin eruption on the nose and the face has the shape of a butterfly wing.

The disease is said to be related to hypersensitive, allergic reaction to the sun's ray.

There are a number of forms of this condition, some of which can be very serious. New forms of treatments with cortisone and ACTH have lessened some of its complications.

To Deaden the Pain

By John Chamberlain

Whatever may be the faults of Barry Goldwater, he is not one of "those who rave and rant" about anything. So far as his own personal speechmaking is concerned, he has been waging the least demagogic national campaign that anyone now alive could possibly remember.

Just consider how he has been breaking all the more cynical campaign rules. He goes into West Virginia, in the heart of Appalachia. There, in Charleston, he unburies himself on the subject of the current anti-poverty campaign for the allegiance of the Appalachian states. He says a mere billion dollars will do practically nothing toward eliminating poverty, which is certainly a true statement. But it is not the sort of thing that a demagogic rant and raver would choose to tell an audience in the heart of the region that will be getting the money.

On his swing through the South, Goldwater stops in Tennessee. There, where it is supposed to be political suicide to attack the TVA, he reaffirms his proposal to sell certain TVA appendages, such as fertilizer plants, to private owners.

Moving into Texas, he speaks at Fort Worth, where the local plant of the General Dynamics Corporation has been awarded a six billion dollar contract to manufacture the TFX aircraft. This presumably means a lot of jobs in the Fort Worth area. So what does Goldwater say? He tells the Texans that the TFX contract was "politically oriented," and that it should have gone to Boeing in Seattle, Washington, a company which, Goldwater said, was in a position to make a better plane.

Goldwater's refusal to play it safe is cause for almost ecstatic wonder in a most unlikely place, the little "Freedom and Union" magazine put out by Clarence Streit, the prophet of a federation of the Atlantic democracies. When Goldwater made clear at San Francisco that "Atlantic union is a key issue to him," says Mr. Streit, "the extreme nationalists in the Goldwater camp and his extreme critics in the other who seem convinced that he is dominated by 'isolationists,' 'Birchers' and 'fascists'... were struck dumb." Mr. Streit finds Goldwater far more satisfactory than Lyndon Johnson on the subject of Atlantic community, for the Johnson acceptance speech at Atlantic City "made no reference to Atlantica, whose flowering had so big a place in Senator Goldwater's acceptance."

As the Goldwater campaign unfolds, it becomes increasingly apparent that we have a most unpolitical nominee contending for the Presidency. The man seems extreme because he is extremely honest. It is true, of course, that Goldwater hasn't been talking recently about making social security "voluntary," which might be construed as a retreat.

But the reason for the silence, I think, is that Goldwater despairs of making himself understood on the subject in a campaign year. The original Goldwater statement on social security followed the publication of a poll taken in Britain which indicated that more than fifty per cent of the English voters would like to have the opportunity to "contract out" of government welfare schemes. "Contracting out" implies that welfare must be kept up, but that a choice would be allowed between the public and private kinds. In America we allow such a choice in education; parents may send their children to public or private schools, as they prefer. But they must choose some form of schooling.

Now it is not true that the American government is powerless to find a way to finance a social security system that would permit a person to select a public or a private old-age insurance policy, the qualifying stipulation being that he must maintain either one or the other. But a Presidential candidate would have to take a battery of insurance actuaries along with him to be convincing on this point. And very few people would hang around long enough to listen.

Goldwater's honesty, which transcends the call of duty, recalls that of old John Stuart Mill in Victorian times. When he was campaigning for the English parliament in 1865, Mill was confronted by a group of workmen who asked him if he had authored a quote that said "the lower classes, though mostly habitual liars, are ashamed of lying." Mill looked the workingmen in the eye and said, "I did." Whereupon they cheered him and voted for him — and he won his seat in Commons.

That, however, was a century ago. And besides, it was in another country.

NEW YORK (AP) — The ads and commercials keep telling you how easy it is to borrow. But some of the managers of the nation's monetary and credit systems are getting uneasy about the chance that the mounting volume of loans and mortgages might run into a double play.

Specifically: Some bad risks are popping up because of overzealous lenders and overconfident borrowers.

This uneasiness among the monetary authorities is tied right now to fear that the growing optimism about business in general could lead to overextension by both businessmen and consumers.

And these authorities are citing increasing mortgage foreclosures and some growth in volume of delinquent bills.

Monetary managers are by nature a cautious lot. And despite their fretting, Americans by and large have handled the swelling volume of personal debt with a minimum of individual disasters. The majority doubtless will continue along a fairly prudent course.

It's the fringe risks that the authorities are worried about — the ones now getting into trouble and the ones that could if businessmen and consumers grow overconfident because the current business upturn appears to them to be endless.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reports that foreclosures on home mortgages have been rising. The rate per 1,000 loans advanced was 1.38 in the three months ended June 30, compared with 1.24 a year earlier. For a 12-month period this brought the rate to 5.24 per 1,000 loans outstanding, compared with 4.76 for the 12 months ended June 30, 1963.

Chairman Joseph W. Barr of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., says that the increasing volume of mortgage credit outstanding and the easing of terms in many regions is cause enough for the hoisting of warning signals. He proposes that next year the Congress take a new look at the entire credit situation.

The vice chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, C. Canby Baldwin, says the quality of credit can be maintained at the present rate of lending if bankers and other financial institutions keep a sharp eye on it. But he also warns of the high potential for unsound extensions of credit to businessmen or consumers who overrate their future financial prospects.

He urged particular caution in helping individuals increase their home mortgages to raise money for household equipment or vacation travel.

Baldwin points out another trend, the large growth in the debt of unincorporated businesses such as proprietorships and partnerships. He says that despite some rise in the bad debt losses from such loans, the trend so far is being kept in reasonable bounds. But he urges bankers to make sure of the financial health of businessmen seeking such loans.

So far the rise in the number of debt defaults isn't alarming. The monetary authorities are just sounding the note of caution to both lenders and borrowers not to get too far off base.

To the Editor

I wonder just how many people know that agriculture is the only segment of the economy not permitted to price their products.

The farmer takes his commodity to the processor or cooperative and is told by them just what he will receive for his effort. I understand that the chain stores are becoming so powerful they are now dictating prices to the processors, who in turn haven't much choice but to pass the loss off onto the farmer.

This is the complete reverse of the American way of life — the buyer never dictates the price except in agriculture.

In case you weren't aware of the facts, the middleman is now finding it in his heart to give the farmer a top price of 17 cents per pound for his pork and 25 cents per pound for his choice beef.

These prices were down to 13 and 20 cents, respectively, last winter. What are you paying for pork and beef in the stores?

It costs the farmer approximately 15 cents per pound to produce the pork and 22 cents per pound to produce beef. And they're calling for lower prices this winter.

How long can the farmer stay in business with this kind of a deal? And why is the United States importing pork at 23 cents per pound? Why are we importing beef when we have a so-called surplus of these products now?

Why does the United States import beef from Haiti when many people of Haiti reportedly are starving?

This is why we hope the consumer does not feel any animosity toward the farmer when he finally decides it is time to organize and revolt.

Scientific Hegira

The United States receives scientific and engineering talent each year equivalent to the output of two average universities. More than three per cent of its scientific manpower came from other countries.

Nothing new in academic circles, this "brain drain" has been going on since World War II. Countries losing some of their most valuable manpower to the United States have tried restricting emigration, propagandizing in the U.S. for return of their nationals, and offering greater salary and other inducements to keep them at home.

Still they leave, and most of them come to the shores of North America. America's gain, however, is frequently a distressing loss at home. In the years 1957-61 South American countries lost to the U. S. 1,837 engineers and scientists, and Asian migration during the same period was 2,142.

These numbers pale into insignificance in the armies of U. S. professionals, but back home they represented a high percentage of the educated elite. Even Britain, which has one of the best developed university systems, is hurting because of its scientific manpower drain.

There are many reasons why scientists from all over the world wish to come to the United States to work. The space program, for example, has opened a wide array of new vistas to challenge the best of the world's scientific talent. These opportunities are available in no other country except the Soviet Union, and it is a good bet that without the iron hand of coercion and blackmail to stay them, an exodus of Soviet scientists would also be underway.

Salaries and professional freedom are other reasons given by scientists for coming to the U.S. And prstige is rapidly becoming a dominant reason for the immigration. U. S. universities and laboratories have overtaken the once fashionable centers of learning in Europe.

The growth of science in th United States has been dynamic in the last several decades. As long as it continues this rapid pace, it will be a magnet for top talent from all over the world.

Doomsday Postponed

What a difference a couple of days make. First, the Soviet Union was supposed to have some horrendous kind of new weapon -- a terror bomb, perhaps even a doomsday device. Premier Khrushchev mentioned it to Japanese visitors, and his rtmarks were interpreted as a threat to the Red Chinese.

But two days later Khrushchev said it was all a mistake, that he was misquoted. He said that he wasn't threatening anybody and, while the Soviets do have a new weapon, it isn't a terrible kind of new nuclear bomb, and whatever it is it doesn't have unlimited power.

Meanwhile, President Johnson was also talking about weapons. He says the United States has two new weapons systems that can intercept and destroy armtd satellites circling the earth, and also a new kind of radar that can look around the curve of the tarth.

So, in the space of 48 hours, the arms race has heated up, cooled off, and ended up about where it was. If Khrushchev does have a new weapon, the U.S. apparently can shoot it down, if it's the kind that orbits the earth. If it's the kind that's delivered by missile, the U. S. apparently will be able to see it coming sooner and presumably can defend against it.

The arms race goes on, and there is still no weapon for which there is no defense, actual or potential. It has been thus ever since man first made a shield to protect against the spear. Against the bullet, there is armor. Against the bomber, anti-aircraft guns. Against the missile, the anti-issile missile.

Ill-Mannered Women Decried

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It happens at least a million times a day in America. Every day.

A man and a woman inadvertently bump into each other. Neither is to blame.

But what happens?

"Excuse me, ma'am," the man says, and steps aside.

And what does the woman do?

Well, in a great majority of cases she either glares through the male miscreant as if he didn't exist, or else summarily dismisses him with a surly remark, such as, "You could at least look where you're going."

And as she strides on in female triumph she leaves behind her an embittered man in whose soul there has withered another petal on the flower of chivalry.

No matter how often they are confronted with the problem, men can't quite reconcile themselves to the bad public manners of women who really should know better.

We all are familiar with the old story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Dr. Jekyll was an essential kind man, a scientist dedicated to the service of humanity. But every time he took a nip from a smoking brew in his laboratory, he emerged a beast. The moral, I have always supposed, is: If you have to drink, but it in a bar —don't make it in the basement.

But this famous 19th century tale has had an infamous 20th century sequel. It is the story of Mrs. Jekyll and Mrs. Hyde.

Mrs. Jekyll is a fine wife and mother. At home she sets an excellent example for her children. People love to be invited to her home, because she is a gracious hostess, attentive to their needs and solicitous of their welfare. As they leave, her men guests often murmur, "That lucky Dr. Jekyll — to have such a wonderful woman as his wife."

But when Mrs. Jekyll leaves her home — no matter whether she has had a nip or two from a bottle in her kitchen laboratory — a sudden change comes over her.

She turns into Mrs. Hyde.

Gone is her sweet courtesy, her gentle airs, her consideration for others. A baleful transformation has taken place.

Outwardly, she still looks to other women like Mrs. Jekyll. But to men she encounters she looks like Mrs. Hyde — an unpredictable monster with the manners of a fishwife and the conduct of a sabre-toothed tigress.

She prowls the streets and stores poking strange men in their eyes with her umbrella, stepping on their toes with her spiked heels, elbowing them aside in restaurants, rushing ahead of them to get a taxi.

After a hard day of abusing and bruising all men who happen to stand in her path, she returns home, and takes off the mask of Mrs. Hyde. When Dr. Jekyll enters, there is sweet, angel-faced Mrs. Jekyll, waiting to put on his slippers.

But why does Mrs. Hyde act this way to men in public? Some say it's because her shoes are too tight. Some say it's because she just secretly hates and represents the natural superiority of man over woman.

Whatever the reason, most men are getting awfully tired of the Mrs. Hydys — and the Miss Hydys — of this world. They are not going to get away with it forever.

AN OLD-TIMER was having his first medical check-up in a decade. "You're in great shape," was the doctor's verdict. "You ought to live to be ninety." "Heck," said his patient, "I'm ninety now."

"See," exulted the medico. "What did I tell you?"

After two big-name football coaches had been chivied into resigning by alumni of a big Eastern university who considered anything but an all-winning season a disgrace, the late Herman Hickman agreed to take the job. "What are you going to do about those pesky alumni?" he was asked. "My intention," Hickman announced, "is to keep them sullen but not mutinous."

At an East Side hash house a dissatisfied patron pointed out to a waiter, "This is supposed to be an oyster stew, but there's not one blank oyster in it." Unabashed, the waiter pointed out, "The man at the next table's having an Irish stew. Do you think he expects to find an Irishman in it?"

Most Wives Are Write

DEAR ABBY: In the 16 years that we have been married, my husband has never written a letter to his parents. I didn't mind writing all the thank-you letters for the gifts they sent our pre-school children, but I resented having to write letters for their 37-year-old son. He was always too "busy" to write, but he found time to do the things he wanted to do. Last year I became so disgusted with his juvenile attitude that I finally told him that if his parents were going to hear from us, HE would have to write the letters. He didn't write one letter, but each time we'd get a worried letter from them because of the long silence, he would call them long distance. This put a strain on our budget. I wonder how many other wives have husbands like mine, and what do they do about them?

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your husband's type is legion. And most wives break down and assume the writing role again. The more stubborn ones cling to their promises, which usually hurt them far more than it does their husbands.

Westfall FFA Unit Formed

"I challenge you to be a National Chapter winner by 1966", said Kirby Barrick the North Eastern Sectional vice president of the Ohio Association of Future Farmers of America.

Barrick addressing a group of Westfall FFA members at the completion of the meeting stated, "you are now one of more than 300 FFA Chapters in Ohio and you will have to work to earn a position". Commenting upon the elections, Barrick stated, "an organization is no stronger than its officers, but without good members to back the officers we again have a poor organization".

Barrick presented the chapter to acting president, Dick Overly. The charter officially states that the Westfall Chapter of the Future Farmers of America has satisfied all the requirements of the Ohio Association and the National Organization of Future Farmers of America.

Barrick, representing the Ohio Association, was the guest speaker at the first meeting of the Westfall Chapter of Future Farmers of America. The roll call showed there were 38 members and eight guests present at the meeting. The items of business included the official naming of the chapter, determining chapter dues, setting up committees for fund raising activities and election of officers.

Refreshments were served by the freshman Vo-Ag class in the shop.

Style Revue Enjoyed by 4-H Entrants

Girls are always interested in style revues.

This especially is true for the six lucky Pickaway County girls who participated in the Style Revue at the State Fair this year.

Each county is allowed six entries in the Style Revue. They participate with and compete against girls from approximately 28 other counties throughout the state.

Style Revues are held on three consecutive days. About one-third of the counties participate

THE GIRLS divide into small groups and model their costumes within the group. They judge and rate each other. Then they select outstanding garments of the day according to the number of entries in each classification.

Standard report forms are used to select state winners from the outstanding entries of all three days.

Girls from Pickaway County who participated in the 4-H

Style Revue at the State Fair this year were Linda Trimmer, Jeanne Bartholomew, Karen Liff, Linda Minor, Kay Felkey and Valerie May.

Miss Liff was selected as one of the outstanding of the day in tailored clothing. Miss Trimmer was one of the outstanding of the day in complete costume.

Jerry and Larry Vance served as escorts for the State Style Revue.

Bond Sales For August Are $75,741

August sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Pickaway County were $75,741, according to William D. Radcliff, county savings bond chairman.

The county attained 71.7 per cent of its yearly sales goal with E & H purchases to date of $562,474, Radcliff said.

Ohio sales for August were $24 million which raised the total 1964 sales to date to $207.4 million.

Ohio has achieved 68.8 per cent of its sales goal and is on the beam for the period ending Aug. 31.

Though August sales were below the exceptionally good sales of August 1963, they did exceed sales in August 1962.

Total savings bonds held by Ohioans reached a new high in August. Current figures from the Savings Bond Division indicate that Savings Bond holdings in Ohio now total over $3 billion.

Most Wives Are Write

DEAR ABBY: In the 16 years that we have been married, my husband has never written a letter to his parents. I didn't mind writing all the thank-you letters for the gifts they sent our pre-school children, but I resented having to write letters for their 37-year-old son. He was always too "busy" to write, but he found time to do the things he wanted to do. Last year I became so disgusted with his juvenile attitude that I finally told him that if his parents were going to hear from us, HE would have to write the letters. He didn't write one letter, but each time we'd get a worried letter from them be-

Important Grooming Aids

HANDY WASHER — The suction cups draw water and suds through fabric without stretching or twisting it. Very useful for washing items in the basin.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

It takes more than makeup to make you attractive. It also takes a supply of good - groomers, non - cosmetic products that are absolutely essential if you're to maintain a neat and nifty look.

How's your supply of aids in this category? Don't know? Then take stock, using the following list as a guide:

Shoe Trees: Never underestimate their value. Inserted in your shoes, faithfully, they'll help smart pumps keep their shape.

Wooden Hangers: The sturdier the better is the rule for these, because hangers that support clothes properly keep them wrinkle - free and ready to wear.

Spot Remover: It may not be this way with everyone, but with me a spot is something that invariably shows up just as I'm dressed to the nines and ready to leave the house. At a moment like this, an aerosol of spot remover comes to the rescue like a St. Bernard Dog.

Hand Washer: This shortan-dled aid, which has seven suction cups in its flexible rubber head, is a blessing when you're doing scarves, blouses or drieries in the basin.

The washer saves hands and, via the suction cups, draws water and suds through fabric without stretching or twisting it.

Cold Water Wash: If you're a sweater girl, stock up on a cleanser designed just for woolens, cashmere and angora. It's also kind to delicate fabrics, such as silk and rayon.

Pressing Cloth: A heavy cotton cloth treated with silicones should be numbered among your supplies. It enables you to do a professional job when it's time to steam-press woolens, silks, knitted fabrics and synthetics.

Clothes Brush: Keep one handy, like in the hall closet, and use it to give shoulders and collars the brush-off before you sally forth.

Jewelry Cleaner: There are several liquid preparations on the market in which you can dip your costume gems. Their form-

Dayton Can Claim Share Of Tire Production Fame

SKILL, PLUS AUTOMATION — Modern machinery and craftsmanship work together at Dayton to produce tires. Here a skilled worker manipulates an advanced tire "building" machine that automatically assembles plies, beads, sidewalls and treads — the major components of a tire. Observing the operation, from the left, are: W. E. Slutz, factory sales manager for Dayton, Paul Smallwood of The Circleville Herald and Glen M. Smallwood, a Dayton sales official based in Houston, Tex.

Although Akron is termed the "rubber capital" of the world, the city of Dayton also must be given a share of the spotlight in this industrial field.

Such recognition can be derived from the Dayton Tire & Rubber Co., one of the growing city's larger industries. Tires of all types flow endlessly from the firm's numerous production lines.

Dayton is renowned as the home of conventional aviation. But about the same time Orville and Wilbur Wright were developing their winged wonder of the world there, the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Co. was incorporated.

The company, started in 1905, was located in a one-story building in an area that is now one of the oldest sections of Dayton and employed 22 persons. Today the firm employs in the neighborhood of 1,700 people.

AFTER entering the tire market in about 1910, the company moved to its present site in 1917. Since then, the operation has expanded many-fold.

acquisition a move that has produced several benefits for both firms.

The huge Dayton production center operates under the direction of C. M. (Pat) Barnes, president, who has compiled many years of experience in the tire production world. W. E. Slutz, factory sales manager, is another veteran of the industry.

The plant, located a short distance from downtown Dayton, is a classic example of cleanliness and efficiency in operation. Safety is accented throughout all phases of production activity.

LIKE other industries in the nation, Dayton constantly seeks a standard of excellence. To do this, the company conducts more than 200 quality control tests designed to insure dependable and peak performance tires.

Modern machinery and hand-craftsmanship work together at Dayton in the never ending quest to produce tires of exceptional quality. Electronic control plays a major role in reaching this objective.

Dynamic research and development is another key function at Dayton Tire & Rubber. A highly trained staff operates a multitude of devices devoted to producing scientific advances in the tire field.

Today the company enjoys nationwide distribution and claims the distinction of being one of the most modern and advanced tire production plants in the nation.

Dayton officials, proud of their operation, extend a friendly welcome mat to visitors. A tour through their plant and offices is both educational and enjoyable.

Geologist Believes Moon, Hawaii Hold Common Trait

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Beautiful Hawaii would appear to have nothing in common with the desolate barrenness of the moon.

Yet there is a big similarity, say Manned Spacecraft Center scientists after a close study of the recent Ranger 7 photos.

Uel S. Clanton, space center geologist and one of a team of moon experts studying Ranger's remarkable pictures of the moon, said the photos reveal a string of shield volcanoes which are readily distinguishable by their low-angle, coneshaped craters.

Hawaii is one of two places on earth with shield volcanoes, Clanton said. Greenland is the other.

For this reason, Clanton said geology field trips to Hawaii by the nation's 29 astronauts would be made soon.

Hawaii's famous Mauna Loa is a shield volcano, Clanton said. The moon trainees' work would be to study the lava beds of the fiery crater so they would be familiar with the lava formations in case the same flows were found on the moon.

Clanton agrees with Dr. Gerard P. Kuiper of the University of Arizona and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's top analyst of the 4,316 Ranger photos.

Kuiper believes the lunar surface to be like "crunchy snow." He also says he believes formations in the photos to be lava flow beds.

Clanton said this is his theory too, although Ranger 7 pictures gave no solid basis for this theory or the one advanced by Dr. Thomas Gold of Cornell University, who said the moon was covered by a deep layer of dust.

Clanton said laboratory tests with dust in a vacuum chamber equal to the moon's pressure showed that the material "welded" together, much like a texture of crunchy snow.

"We are still studying the pictures," Clanton said, "but much of the moon looks volcanic in origin."

He said that heat, which is associated with volcanic activity on earth, does not have to be present in an environment such as the moon's to produce craters.

"A gas or liquid that came to the surface of the moon would expand and explode and that is a volcanic eruption," Clanton said. "There is no heat associated with the explosion."

To demonstrate, Clanton cited tests in vacuum chambers where liquids explode when depressurized.

The space geologist said he found evidence of an almost continuous battering of the lunar surface by meteoroids and micrometeoroids.

SKILL, PLUS AUTOMATION — Modern machinery and craftsmanship work together at Dayton to produce tires. Here a skilled worker manipulates an advanced tire "building" machine that automatically assembles plies, beads, sidewalls and treads — the major components of a tire. Observing the operation, from the left, are: W. E. Slutz, factory sales manager for Dayton, Paul Smallwood of The Circleville Herald and Glen M. Smallwood, a Dayton sales official based in Houston, Tex.

Although Akron is termed the "rubber capital" of the world, the city of Dayton also must be given a share of the spotlight in this industrial field.

Such recognition can be derived from the Dayton Tire & Rubber Co., one of the growing city's larger industries. Tires of all types flow endlessly from the firm's numerous production lines.

Dayton is renowned as the home of conventional aviation. But about the same time Orville and Wilbur Wright were developing their winged wonder of the world there, the Dayton Rubber Manufacturing Co. was incorporated.

The company, started in 1905, was located in a one-story building in an area that is now one of the oldest sections of Dayton and employed 22 persons. Today the firm employs in the neighborhood of 1,700 people.

Darby Twp. Family Boasts Outstanding Record in 4-H

4-H FAMILY — The William Chaney Vance family admires a few of the trophies they have won during an accumulative 73 years in 4-H work. They are, seated left to right: Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Vance, Linda. Standing are Larry (left) and Jerry.

The William Chaney Vances of Darby Twp. are an outstanding 4-H family that can boast an accumulation of 73 years in 4-H work.

Jerry and Larry, the two boys in the family of six, have both won the Pickaway County 4-H Service Award. This honor is presented annually to the outstanding 4-H boy in the county.

Barbara won the Heart H Award this year which goes to outstanding 4-H girl in the county. Both Mr. and Mrs. Vance are leaders of Banner 4-H Clubs.

In point of years of service, Mrs. Vance leads the family with 14 years as a club adviser. She also served eight years as a 4-H club member.

JERRY is a junior at Ohio State University, has 13 years of 4-H club membership. Mr. Vance has served eight years as an adviser and was a member himself for five years.

Larry has been in 4-H work for 12 years and Barbara for eight years. Linda, youngest member of the family, has five years of membership behind her.

Linda is a sophomore at Westfall High School. During her 4-H career she has completed projects in sewing, beef and swine.

She won the District Safety Speaking contest this year, is a junior leader and was a counselor at the Junior 4-H Camp at Tar Hollow.

During her eight years in 4-H Club work, Barbara has won many honors. But she feels she has gained much more through exchanging ideas and learning from the many other 4-H members she has met on a state and local level.

She has attended the Tar Hollow camp for eight years. Four of these years she was a counselor and song leader.

SHE was president of the junior leadership club this year and attended the junior leadership camp. In 1963 she was the runner up in the Junior Fair Queen contest.

She was in the individual demonstration both at the Ohio

State fair and the county fair in 1963 as well as the team demonstration at the 1963 county fair.

Barbara's projects include sewing, cooking, swine and beef. She has received recognition pins in recreation, home economics and leadership.

Larry, a junior in the college of agriculture at Ohio State, has completed 45 4-H projects in his 12 years of club work. He received an A grade on all of them.

He is a member of five clubs. They are the Darby Fine and Dandy Livestock Club, Pickaway Soil Savers, Electric Club, Tractor Club and Junior Leadership Club.

He has served as a member of the Junior Fair board for four years, and attended 4-H camp 11 years. He has served as a counselor for eight years.

LARRY has been a delegate to the Ohio Junior Leadership Camp, a delegate to the Ohio Club Congress, a counselor at the Ohio Club Congress, and an adviser at the Ohio Club Congress.

He has also been a delegate to the National Club Congress and the four-state YMW Conference.

He has earned many honors, including the Ohio Leadership Interviews — he was ranked 12th in national competition — second in the state — and the county service award.

A member of the winning beef judging team at the State Fair, Larry was awarded an all expense paid trip to the Chicago International Livestock Exhibition.

This year he was the Pickaway County Fair King. He served as a supervisor of the junior swine barn at the 1964 Ohio State Fair.

Currently the publicity chairman of the University 4-H Club, he has been a member of this organization for two years.

JERRY has completed 13 years in 4-H Club work, seven years in Junior Leadership, six years as a 4-H camp counselor and six years as a senior counselor.

He has attended the Ohio 4-H Club Congress as a counselor and advisor, the National 4-H Club Congress, has served as a delegate and counselor at the conservation camp and a delegate to the Junior Leadership Camp.

In 1961 he won the Buckeye Leader award. He won the general livestock judging contest at the County Fair in 1960 and again in 1962.

He has served as president of the Junior Fair board, president of the Junior Leadership Club and also for the Darby Fine and Dandy and Pickaway Soil Savers.

He was a member of the Pickaway County Judging team at the Ohio State Fair in 1960 and 1961.

Jerry has completed 50 projects in livestock, electric, conservation, tractor and junior leadership.

He is the parliamentarian of the University 4-H Club at OSU where he is a junior. In the way of other duties, he was chairman of the University 4-H Club pop stand at the Ohio State Fair and served as chairman of the Buckeye Leader Award Planning Committee in 1963 and 1964.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Sept. 30, the 274th day of 1965. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1938, the Munich Pact was signed by British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, French Premier Edouard Daladier, Italian Premier Benito Mussolini and Germany's Adolf Hitler. "Peace in our time" was the expression of the day as Hitler forced the world to accept his partitioning of Czechoslovakia.

On this date In 1787, the Columbia left Boston, the first ship to carry the American flag around the world.

In 1846, ether was first used as an anesthetic by Boston dentist William Morton, in extracting a patient's tooth.

In 1914, the United States flag was flown for the first time in World War I, at Toulouse, France, by American members of the French Foreign Legion.

In 1940, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared the restoration of Czechoslovakia's liberties to be one of the principal aims of the war.

In 1954, the Navy submarine Nautilus—the first atomic-powered vessel—was commissioned.

Ten years ago—Russia asked the United Nations to investigate what it called piratical attacks by Nationalist Chinese warships against merchant vessels visiting the mainland.

Five years ago—Italian Premier Antonio Segni arrived in the United States for a five-day visit.

One year ago—President John F. Kennedy pledged financial help to non-Communist nations when the United States ended its deficit in international payments.

Japan To Show Fastest Train

TOKYO (AP) — The world's fastest electric trains roll into regular operation Thursday between Tokyo and Osaka. Japanese "vigilantes" have been alerted to prevent sabotage.

About 21,000 speed-struck Japanese and foreigners have booked seats on the 30 blue and cream 12-car trains that will make the inaugural runs on

Japan's billion-dollar new Tokaido line.

Every modern safety device, including hundreds of miles of fence, automatic train controls, and elimination of all grade crossings, has been built into the 320-mile railway, the nation's first broad-gauge line. Rigid tests are mandatory for all motormen.

The vigilantes — volunteers living along the line — have been called into service to keep an eye out for crackpots, saboteurs and jokesters. The government-run Japanese national railways has recruited about a hundred of these civic-minded watchdogs, given them the official title of "civil cooperators" and supplied them with flares.

Their assignment is to keep an eye out for boulders, oil drums or other obstacles on the tracks, notify police if things get out of hand, and, if necessary, rush out onto the right of way with flares lit to halt an onrushing train.

The railway has reason to be apprehensive about the possibility of sabotage to the dream trains, which will average 80 miles an hour in their initial four-hour runs between Tokyo and Osaka and 107 m.p.h., when they cover the distance in three hours next spring.

Since 1962, there have been 37 cases of attempted sabotage. In 1963 alone the national railways had 2,172 accidents caused by what it calls "interference by outsiders," that is, obstacles on the tracks, stones thrown at moving trains and sidown strikers.

Fertility Drug Ups Multiple Birth Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of quadruplets born here last year had been treated with an experimental fertility drug after six childless years of marriage, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said that Mrs. Martin Brecker of Queens was among 21 women to whom the drug, Pergonal, was administered at the center's fertility clinic.

Last Oct. 23, Mrs. Brecker gave birth to three girls and a boy—Lisa, Jodi, Allison and John.

Of the 21 patients, 15 became pregnant and of the others who have given birth so far, three had single babies and three had twins, the hospital said.

The spokesman said that other American medical researchers using the drug, which contains human hormones, also report a high incidence of twins. Swedish scientists, also using it, report many multiple births, including one set of stillborn septuplets.

The drug was discovered in Italy. Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., holds the U.S. patent and was quoted as saying an application is pending before the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for permission to market it.

Soviet Pair Is on Trial

Finn Is Revealed As Mystery "Spy"

NEW YORK (AP) — Selection of a federal court jury got under way Tuesday at the spy trial of a Soviet couple.

An initial panel of 100 prospects was called into the courtroom shortly before the noon recess.

At the same time, a list of 200 prospective government witnesses was read in court. Among them were persons whose identities were stolen by the defendants.

The trial began Monday with the revelation that a Finn named Kaarlo R. Tuomi was the mysterious Soviet spy who worked for the United States and helped break up the spy ring.

He is the government's key witness.

The government had cloaked Tuomi's identity, disclosing only that a top Soviet spy had been caught by U.S. agents here and had agreed to act as a counter-spy.

His name entered the trial record over the objections of the Justice Department. He reportedly has been tightly guarded.

On trial are Alexandre Sokolov, 40, and his wife, 34. To cover their identities, they used the names of two Americans, who were unaware that their names had been purloined.

The Sokolovs are accused of conspiring to pass U.S. defense secrets to the Soviet Union over a period of six years. If convicted, they would face a possible death penalty.

They were arrested July 2, 1963 at their apartment in Washington. At the same time a Soviet personnel officer at the United Nations and his wife were arrested in New York City. They were later swapped for two Americans held by the Russians.

The indictment also named as co-conspirators two Soviet diplomats attached to the United Nations. They returned home two months before the arrests.

Ex-VFW Aide Jailed For $21,700 Theft

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — George R. Coyle has been sentenced to one to 10 years in Ohio Penitentiary on a charge of embezzling $21,700 from the Sandusky post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Coyle, 41, former financial secretary of the post, was handed the prison term Tuesday after he pleaded guilty.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Secret Service, whose job is protecting presidents, didn't come out of the Warren Commission's investigation smelling like a rose. Anything but.

After it got through investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren blamed the Secret Service for a number of shortcomings.

This agency has had the task of protecting presidents since at least 1902. The picture of it which emerges from the commission's report makes it look unimaginative, understaffed and out-of-date.

It's no wonder, after reading the commission's criticism, that the Warren group raised this question: Should the Secret Service be further entrusted with protecting presidents or should some other agency be given the job?

The commission called the service "inadequate" — which seems like a mild word under the circumstances — in its advance preparations for Kennedy's trip to Dallas; its plans for identifying and protecting against persons considered threats to a president; its rules for even determining who such persons are; and its plans for detecting an assassin in buildings a presidential motorcade passes.

At the time of Kennedy's trip to Dallas, the commission said, the Secret Service "as a matter of practice" did not investigate or cause to be checked any building along the motorcade route taken by the President.

Lee Harvey Oswald, who worked in the Texas School Book Depository which the Kennedy motorcade passed, shot the President from the building's sixth-story window.

The Commission believed that the Secret Service's precautions were "too largely directed at the 'crank' threat" and not enough toward other individuals or groups which could be considered a source of danger.

Railroad Telegraphers Given Nod for Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal judge says the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has exhausted all bargaining procedures under the Railway Labor Act and therefore has a right to strike against the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad over its request that the railroad not abolish jobs without mutual agreement.

Judge John O. Henderson made the ruling Tuesday in denying a request by the railroad, which employs about 18,000 persons in Ohio and five other states, for a temporary injunction that would have blocked the union from striking the line.

Oswald is an example.

Although he had defected to the Soviet Union, then returned, distributed pro-Castro pamphlets, then tried to leave for Cuba and the Soviet Union again, and was investigated by the FBI, the Secret Service had no record of him in Dallas.

How did this happen? Because the Secret Service's main interest has been in persons making direct threats against the president, the FBI did not send it information on Oswald.

By James Marlow

The commission criticized the FBI for not doing so although, to this writer it seems an unfair criticism, and the commission itself said its conclusion may be "tinged with hindsight."

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, testified before the commission and after summarizing the bureau's investigative interest in Oswald prior to the assassination, he concluded that:

"There was nothing up to the time of the assassination that gave any indication that this man was a dangerous character who might do harm to the president or vice president."

Oswald had tried to kill former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker — by shooting at him through his window — months before he killed the President, but no one knew of this until after the assassination except Oswald's wife.

It was only after the Warren Commission had made its broad investigation into relatives, friends, neighbors and old acquaintances of Oswald that the information came about his inclination toward violence in childhood, such as chasing his brother with a knife and throwing it at him.

The commission thinks the FBI should have told the Secret Service about Oswald and said it thought both agencies took too narrow a view of their separate responsibilities.

It's questionable that if the Secret Service had learned of Oswald from the FBI — since he had made no threat against Kennedy — it would have thought him dangerous enough, because of its limited manpower, to investigate him.

The commission has called for an overhaul of the Secret Service and more cooperation between investigative government agencies.

Japan To Show Fastest Train

TOKYO (AP) — The world's fastest electric trains roll into regular operation Thursday between Tokyo and Osaka. Japanese "vigilantes" have been alerted to prevent sabotage.

About 21,000 speed-struck Japanese and foreigners have booked seats on the 30 blue and cream 12-car trains that will make the inaugural runs on

Japan's billion-dollar new Tokaido line.

Every modern safety device, including hundreds of miles of fence, automatic train controls, and elimination of all grade crossings, has been built into the 320-mile railway, the nation's first broad-gauge line. Rigid tests are mandatory for all motormen.

The vigilantes — volunteers living along the line — have been called into service to keep an eye out for crackpots, saboteurs and jokesters. The government-run Japanese national railways has recruited about a hundred of these civic-minded watchdogs, given them the official title of "civil cooperators" and supplied them with flares.

Their assignment is to keep an eye out for boulders, oil drums or other obstacles on the tracks, notify police if things get out of hand, and, if necessary, rush out onto the right of way with flares lit to halt an onrushing train.

The railway has reason to be apprehensive about the possibility of sabotage to the dream trains, which will average 80 miles an hour in their initial four-hour runs between Tokyo and Osaka and 107 m.p.h., when they cover the distance in three hours next spring.

Since 1962, there have been 37 cases of attempted sabotage. In 1963 alone the national railways had 2,172 accidents caused by what it calls "interference by outsiders," that is, obstacles on the tracks, stones thrown at moving trains and sitdown strikers.

Fertility Drug Ups Multiple Birth Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of quadruplets born here last year had been treated with an experimental fertility drug after six childless years of marriage, it was disclosed Tuesday.

A spokesman for the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center said that Mrs. Martin Brecker of Queens was among 21 women to whom the drug, Pergonal, was administered at the center's fertility clinic.

Last Oct. 23, Mrs. Brecker gave birth to three girls and a boy—Lisa, Jodi, Allison and John.

Of the 21 patients, 15 became pregnant and of the others who have given birth so far, three had single babies and three had twins, the hospital said.

The spokesman said that other American medical researchers using the drug, which contains human hormones, also report a high incidence of twins. Swedish scientists, also using it, report many multiple births, including one set of stillborn septuplets.

The drug was discovered in Italy. Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., holds the U.S. patent and was quoted as saying an application is pending before the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for permission to market it.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Secret Service, whose job is protecting presidents, didn't come out of the Warren Commission's investigation smelling like a rose. Anything but.

After it got through investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, the seven-man commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren blamed the Secret Service for a number of shortcomings.

This agency has had the task of protecting presidents since at least 1902. The picture of it which emerges from the commission's report makes it look unimaginative, understaffed and out-of-date.

It's no wonder, after reading the commission's criticism, that the Warren group raised this question: Should the Secret Service be further entrusted with protecting presidents or should some other agency be given the job?

The commission called the service "inadequate" — which seems like a mild word under the circumstances — in its advance preparations for Kennedy's trip to Dallas; its plans for identifying and protecting against persons considered threats to a president; its rules for even determining who such persons are; and its plans for detecting an assassin in buildings a presidential motorcade passes.

At the time of Kennedy's trip to Dallas, the commission said, the Secret Service "as a matter of practice" did not investigate or cause to be checked any building along the motorcade route taken by the President.

Lee Harvey Oswald, who worked in the Texas School Book Depository which the Kennedy motorcade passed, shot the President from the building's sixth-story window.

The Commission believed that the Secret Service's precautions were "too largely directed at the 'crank' threat" and not enough toward other individuals or groups which could be considered a source of danger.

Railroad Telegraphers Given Nod for Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal judge says the Order of Railroad Telegraphers has exhausted all bargaining procedures under the Railway Labor Act and therefore has a right to strike against the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad over its request that the railroad not abolish jobs without mutual agreement.

Judge John O. Henderson made the ruling Tuesday in denying a request by the railroad, which employs about 18,000 persons in Ohio and five other states, for a temporary injunction that would have blocked the union from striking the line.

Oswald is an example.

Although he had defected to the Soviet Union, then returned, distributed pro-Castro pamphlets, then tried to leave for Cuba, and the Soviet Union again, and was investigated by the FBI, the Secret Service had no record of him in Dallas.

How did this happen? Because the Secret Service's main interest has been in persons making direct threats against the president, the FBI did not send it information on Oswald.

By James Marlow

The commission criticized the FBI for not doing so although, to this writer it seems an unfair criticism, and the commission itself said its conclusion may be "tinged with hindsight."

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, testified before the commission and after summarizing the bureau's investigative interest in Oswald prior to the assassination, he concluded that:

"There was nothing up to the time of the assassination that gave any indication that this man was a dangerous character who might do harm to the president or vice president."

Oswald had tried to kill former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker — by shooting at him through his window — months before he killed the President, but no one knew of this until after the assassination except Oswald's wife.

It was only after the Warren Commission had made its broad investigation into relatives, friends, neighbors and old acquaintances of Oswald that the information came about his inclination toward violence in childhood, such as chasing his brother with a knife and throwing it at him.

The commission thinks the FBI should have told the Secret Service about Oswald and said it thought both agencies took too narrow a view of their separate responsibilities.

It's questionable that if the Secret Service had learned of Oswald from the FBI — since he had made no threat against Kennedy — it would have thought him dangerous enough, because of its limited manpower, to investigate him.

The commission has called for an overhaul of the Secret Service and more cooperation between investigative government agencies.

Barry Presses His Journey Through Ohio

As he pressed his quest for votes in Ohio today, the Republican presidential candidate accused Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara of trying to make political capital out of U.S. weaponry.

That charge was prepared for a rally in Dayton, home of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, as Goldwater's campaign train worked its way northward to Toledo on a string of eight whistle stops.

Keynoting the second day of a journey through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Goldwater said the A11, a new reconnaissance plane for the U.S. arsenal, was "an invention that emerged" under former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, a Republican.

"We resent seeing it presented to the American people as the accomplishment of a regime that has deliberately and continually slowed down the advance of aviation," he said.

He added that Democrats have called the A11 a fighter-interceptor and a bomber, too. "We deplore even more the attempt politically to modify an inherently sound technological development into something militarily spurious," Goldwater said.

In Cincinnati, a citadel of Ohio conservatism, Goldwater told a whooping, stomping crowd of more than 15,000 Tuesday night: "I charge that this administration is soft on communism — and you know it."

"Can you imagine what it would be like to have four more years of a regime that is soft on communism?" he asked a rally beamed to a state radio and television audience.

"No," the crowd roared.

Goldwater said President Johnson "seems to be afraid to speak" about his plans for coping with the cold war.

Tracing a route in Ohio followed by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate in 1960, Goldwater drummed his criticism of Johnson's foreign policy before crowds that braved dreary weather in Marietta, Athens, Chillicothe and Blanche.

A helicopter flew ahead of the 18-car campaign special, dropping leaflets. "Follow me to Barry," they read.

Another 15 towns along today's route were to be showered as the tour turned to the north.

Gov. James A. Rhodes apparently made up for what critics called a boner when he failed to mention Goldwater's name in a speech at the Sept. 17 state GOP convention at Columbus.

The governor flew to Chillicothe to introduce the Arizona senator at a train-side rally.

Rhodes told the crowd, "We are here to reaffirm our loyalty to our party."

Then he said, "We Republicans support for president the man I am about to introduce, Sen. Barry Goldwater."

The Ohio Democratic chairman, William L. Coleman, lashed back at Goldwater's charge that President Johnson was not taking sufficient action to fight lawlessness all across the nation.

Goldwater made the charge at Marietta, where he said court leniency was making it "safer in this country to be a criminal than to be a law-abiding citizen."

In a statement in Columbus Tuesday night, Coleman asked Goldwater: "What did you ever do or what would you propose to reduce the fantastically high crime rate in Phoenix, Ariz.?"

Charging that the FBI 1963 uniform crime report lists Phoenix as having the fourth highest crime rate in the nation — "1½ times higher than Washington, D. C., or New York City — three times higher than Cincinnati" — Coleman asked: "Please give the American people the straight facts. Give us your answer in Ohio."

Gambling Capital's Courtesy Nil

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "The fewer clothes a cocktail waitress wears, the more discourteous she becomes," says the Emmerie - Fahey courtesy curve, a new natural law that may someday take its place alongside Parkinson's law and the law of gravity.

"Courtesy increases the lower one looks on the employment scale."

These are a few conclusions of the 10 men and women who prowled Las Vegas hotels and casinos, grinning at cocktail waitresses, ordering food they didn't want, feigning ignorance at blackjack tables and asking change girls to help find lost nickels.

The 10 are members of Creative Research Associates, a fledgling organization tapped by the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce to find out what percentage of the 15,000 tourist industry employees are courteous.

Research directors Al Emmerie, 37, and Robert Fahey, 35, said only 100 of 2,000 employees tested passed the minimum requirement for courtesy. That's 5 per cent.

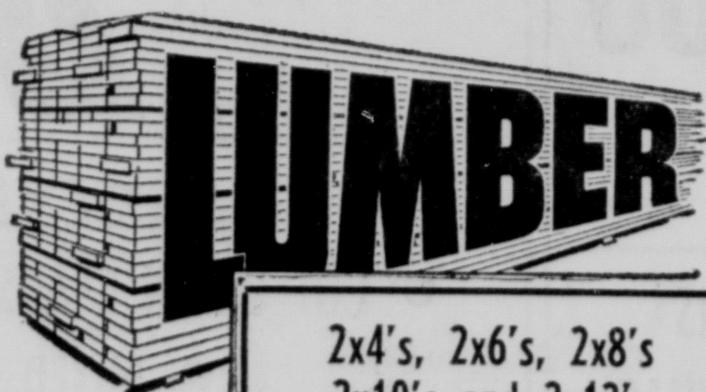

The group identified no persons, hotels or casinos.

"Good waitresses," says Fahey, "take more pride in their ability to do the job itself than do cocktail waitresses." He and Emmerie agreed that the cocktail waitress ranks lowest on the courtesy scale.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters met in the K.P. Hall Thursday. Hostesses were Mrs. Frank Hudson, Mrs. Clara Rihl, Mrs. Clarence Rush, Mrs. Brooks Campbell and Mrs. Sharon Martin.

Games were played and prizes were awarded to the winners.

Tax Roundup Cost Rapped

WORKINGTON, England, (AP) — Storekeeper Eleanor Marshall complained Tuesday that an official with a chauffeur drove 66 miles to collect two-pence she owed on her taxes.

"I sent a check for exactly 200 pounds—$560—and didn't add the two-pence," she said.

"Then the tax man phoned to say he must have it to balance his books. I had a whole series of letters and calls about it so I told them to see my accountant."

At the tax office an official said: "We had to see the accountant anyway to collect some forms. So we collected the twopence at the same time."

"Now they've got the twopence but I still haven't got a receipt," Mrs. Marshall complained.

The tax man said her receipt is in the mail. The postage for the receipt cost threepence.

He added that Democrats have called the A11 a fighter-interceptor and a bomber, too. "We deplore even more the attempt politically to modify an inherently sound technological development into something militarily spurious," Goldwater said.

In Cincinnati, a citadel of Ohio conservatism, Goldwater told a whooping, stomping crowd of more than 15,000 Tuesday night: "I charge that this administration is soft on communism — and you know it."

"Can you imagine what it would be like to have four more years of a regime that is soft on communism?" he asked a rally beamed to a state radio and television audience.

"No," the crowd roared. Goldwater said President Johnson "seems to be afraid to speak" about his plans for coping with the cold war.

Tracing a route in Ohio followed by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential candidate in 1960, Goldwater drummed his criticism of Johnson's foreign policy before crowds that braved dreary weather in Marietta, Athens, Chillicothe and Blanche.

A helicopter flew ahead of the 18-car campaign special, dropping leaflets. "Follow me to Barry," they read.

Another 15 towns along today's route were to be showered as the tour turned to the north.

Gov. James A. Rhodes apparently made up for what critics called a boner when he failed to mention Goldwater's name in a speech at the Sept. 17 state GOP convention at Columbus.

The governor flew to Chillicothe to introduce the Arizona senator at a train-side rally.

Rhodes told the crowd, "We are here to reaffirm our loyalty to our party."

Then he said, "We Republicans support for president the man I am about to introduce, Sen. Barry Goldwater."

The Ohio Democratic chairman, William L. Coleman, lashed back at Goldwater's charge that President Johnson was not taking sufficient action to fight lawlessness all across the nation.

Goldwater made the charge at Marietta, where he said court leniency was making it "safer in this country to be a criminal than to be a law-abiding citizen."

In a statement in Columbus Tuesday night, Coleman asked Goldwater: "What did you ever do or what would you propose to reduce the fantastically high crime rate in Phoenix, Ariz.?"

Charging that the FBI 1963 uniform crime report lists Phoenix as having the fourth highest crime rate in the nation — "1½ times higher than Washington, D. C., or New York City — three times higher than Cincinnati" — Coleman asked:

"Please give the American people the straight facts. Give us your answer in Ohio."

Tax Roundup Cost Rapped

WORKINGTON, England, (AP) — Storekeeper Eleanor Marshall complained Tuesday that an official with a chauffeur drove 66 miles to collect two-pence she owed on her taxes.

"I sent a check for exactly 200 pounds—$560—and didn't add the two-pence," she said.

"Then the tax man phoned to say he must have it to balance his books. I had a whole series of letters and calls about it so I told them to see my accountant."

At the tax office an official said: "We had to see the accountant anyway to collect some forms. So we collected the two-pence at the same time."

"Now they've got the two-pence but I still haven't got a receipt," Mrs. Marshall complained.

The tax man said her receipt is in the mail. The postage for the receipt cost three-pence.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "The fewer clothes a cocktail waitress wears, the more discourteous she becomes," says the Emerie - Fahey courtesy curve, a new natural law that may someday take its place alongside Parkinson's law and the law of gravity.

"Courtesy increases the lower one looks on the employment scale."

These are a few conclusions of the 10 men and women who prowled Las Vegas hotels and casinos, grinning at cocktail waitresses, ordering food they didn't want, feigning ignorance at blackjack tables and asking change girls to help find lost nickels.

The 10 are members of Creative Research Associates, a fledgling organization tapped by the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce to find out what percentage of the 15,000 tourist industry employees are courteous.

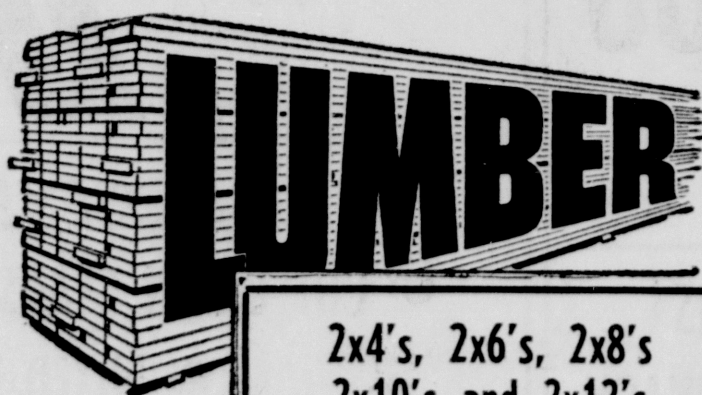

Research directors Al Emerie, 37, and Robert Fahey, 35, said only 100 of 2,000 employees tested passed the minimum requirement for courtesy. That's 5 per cent.

The group identified no persons, hotels or casinos.

"Good waitresses," says Fahey, "take more pride in their ability to do the job itself than do cocktail waitresses." He and Emerie agreed that the cocktail waitress ranks lowest on the courtesy scale.

Flood Refugees Protest in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — About 2,000 ragged villagers streamed into New Delhi Tuesday and staged a screaming protest against government failure to cope with floods that have ravaged vast regions of north India.

Grizzled old men with canes, women carrying babies, children running to keep up, they swarmed through the capital's main business district, clogging traffic and sweeping aside pedestrians.

The monsoon floods have left six million people homeless and covered hundreds of thousands of acres of badly needed crops.

QUINTS HOME—This new home being built for the Andrew Fischer family—that's the quintuplet family—is nearing completion near Aberdeen, S.D. It's on an 800-acre farm.

Subscription TV Is Failing To Go Well

Results are encouraging, says Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, president of the pay-television venture.

Subscription Television launched its ambitious California program two months ago by hooking up patrons in Santa Monica — and later, San Francisco — for shows of big league baseball, culture, off-Broadway plays and year-old movies.

The Wall Street Journal reported last week that the firm had lopped off 143 of its 185 sales people, that orders were lagging, and that subscribers weren't spending as much on programming as anticipated.

Caught in his Santa Monica office between plane trips, fast-moving, big-thinking Pat Weaver appeared far from discouraged. He explained that his company had leaped into operation prematurely in order to combat the anti-pay-television forces that are sponsoring proposition 13 on the Nov. 3 California ballot. It would make pay-television "contrary to public policy."

"It's easy to make people afraid of something that doesn't exist," argued Weaver. "That's why we had to get in operation."

Admittedly, he has had disappointments. His star attractions, the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers, ran out of steam. He was not able to acquire brand-new movies, as he hoped. The subscribers in the average income Santa Monica area have not sent as much for shows as expected.

"But that is partly our own doing," said Weaver. "On the one hand we have not had the programming we expected. And we have not promoted the programming as much as we could."

"We would much rather take in less and have a record of no cancellations. So far no installation has been canceled except for death or moving away."

Weaver said the 6,000 hookups had been made, a total of 25,000 sales have been made in the licensed areas, and 40,000 orders have been received. The cutback in sales personnel was to allow the installations to catch up with sales, he said, as well as to await the outcome of the November election.

He is hopeful that the measure will be defeated, but added he is ready to move $10 million to $11 million in hardware to other areas if the vote goes against him. He said numerous cities are interested.

Moscow Papers Carry Assassination Report

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow papers that did not publish Monday carried brief reports of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The Soviet news agency Tass account, printed in varying lengths, emphasized the commission's finding that Lee Oswald, the assassin, was not a member of a Communist plot.

The papers gave prominent play to skeptical reactions in the West — especially to British Lord Russell's rejection of the report.

An enterprising chef at the St. Louis World's Fair of 1904 introduced a new delicacy — beef chopped, broiled and served on a bun.

SNAKEBITE SERUM

Q. If a person is given anti-snakebite serum following a snakebite would it be necessary to take another shot if bitten at some later date?

A. Yes. The benefits of anti-venom are not lasting because the anti-venom is destroyed in the body within a short time.

MENSTRUAL CLOTS

Q. What causes menstrual clots?

A. Medical authorities generally agree that menstrual blood usually congeals or clots, but is liquefied by vaginal enzymes before it is expelled. A deficiency of the vaginal substances would result in the passing of clots. The presence of small clots in menstrual blood is not abnormal or unusual. However, the occurrence of large clots calls for medical consultation.

STING RAY ATTACKS

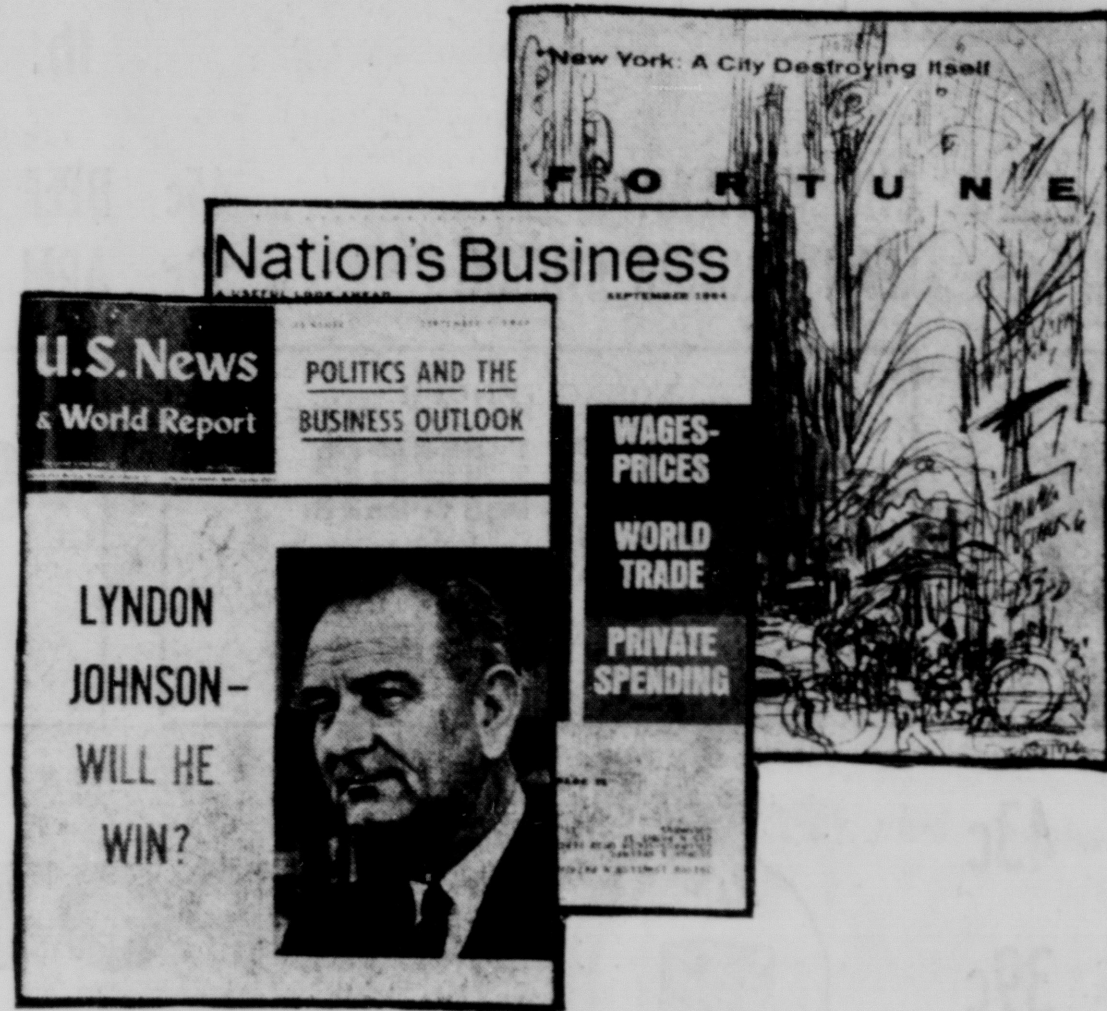

Q. What is the best first-aid treatment for sting ray injuries?

A. Wash the wound thoroughly with cold sea water. Then soak the affected part in hot water for 30 to 60 minutes. The hot soak will usually soothe the pain produced by the sting ray venom. If additional treatment is necessary, consult a physician.

Business and industrial growth in the Columbus and Southern Ohio area is vital to every person living here. New and expanding industry provides more jobs, not only in the industries themselves, but in hundreds of other businesses as well.

Such an expanding economy increases standards of living.

Subscription TV Is Failing To Go Well

Results are encouraging, says Sylvester (Pat) Weaver, president of the pay-television venture.

Subscription Television launched its ambitious California program two months ago by hooking up patrons in Santa Monica — and later, San Francisco — for shows of big league baseball, culture, off-Broadway plays and year-old movies.

The Wall Street Journal reported last week that the firm had lopped off 143 of its 185 sales people, that orders were lagging, and that subscribers weren't spending as much on programming as anticipated.

Caught in his Santa Monica office between plane trips, fast-moving, big-thinking Pat Weaver appeared far from discouraged. He explained that his company had leaped into operation prematurely in order to combat the anti-pay-television forces that are sponsoring proposition 13 on the Nov. 3 California ballot. It would make pay-television "contrary to public policy."

"It's easy to make people afraid of something that doesn't exist," argued Weaver. "That's why we had to get in operation."

Admittedly, he has had disappointments. His star attractions, the San Francisco Giants and the Los Angeles Dodgers, ran out of steam. He was not able to acquire brand-new movies, as he hoped. The subscribers in the average income Santa Monica area have not sent as much for shows as expected.

"But that is partly our own doing," said Weaver. "On the one hand we have not had the programming we expected. And we have not promoted the programming as much as we could."

"We would much rather take in less and have a record of no cancellations. So far no installation has been canceled except for death or moving away."

Weaver said the 6,000 hookups had been made, a total of 25,000 sales have been made in the licensed areas, and 40,000 orders have been received. The outback in sales personnel was to allow the installations to catch up with sales, he said, as well as to await the outcome of the November election.

He is hopeful that the measure will be defeated, but added he is ready to move $10 million to $11 million in hardware to other areas if the vote goes against him. He said numerous cities are interested.

Mrs. Etta Neff spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Reid of near Range.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Furniss and son Harold, Mr. and Mrs. Gene R. Donohoe sons Roger and Robin of near Washington C. H. and Mrs. Bessie Hinton, of Darbyville were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Furniss in Clarksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Caudy and daughter Joyce Ann of Grove City were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Caudy.

Mr. and Mrs. George Powers and family of Springfield were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dennis and daughter Sue.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Anderson were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Junk and family in Columbus.

Moscow Papers Carry Assassination Report

MOSCOW (AP) — Moscow papers that did not publish Monday carried brief reports of the Warren Commission report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The Soviet news agency Tass account, printed in varying lengths, emphasized the commission's finding that Lee Oswald, the assassin, was not a member of a Communist plot.

The papers gave prominent play to skeptical reactions in the West — especially to British Lord Russell's rejection of the report.

An enterprising chef at the St. Louis World's Fair of 1904 introduced a new delicacy — beef chopped, broiled and served on a bun.

Flood Refugees Protest in India

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — About 2,000 ragged villagers streamed into New Delhi Tuesday and staged a screaming protest against government failure to cope with floods that have ravaged vast regions of north India.

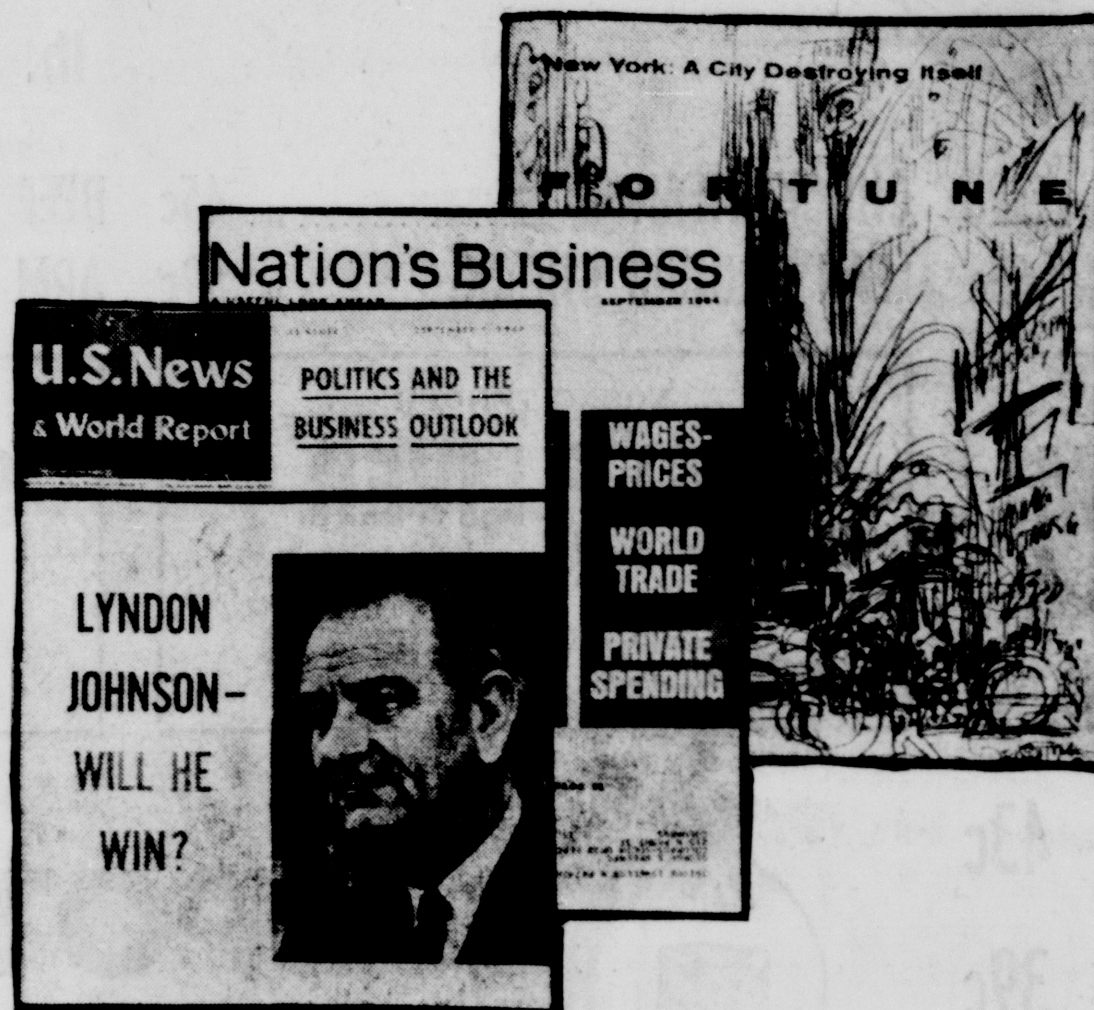

Grizzled old men with canes, women carrying babies, children running to keep up, they swarmed through the capital's main business district, clogging traffic and sweeping aside pedestrians.

The monsoon floods have left six million people homeless and covered hundreds of thousands of acres of badly needed crops.

4-H Members Display Pride In Their Dog Care Projects

The ears of almost 25,000 4-H Club members across the country are sensitively attuned to the "rrruff, rrruff" of their canine friends.

The 4-H Dog Care and Training awards program, now in its sixth year, is attracting a great many urban youngsters and those in rural areas as well, according to the National 4-H Service Committee. It is sponsored by the Ralston Purina Company.

Obedience training is taught, and the young dog handlers soon realize that the animal is an individual. As one 4-H'er put it: "Each dog is different. Some are shy and need coaxing. Others are ready to go and need stricter discipline. Whatever the dog is like, success only comes from hard work and plenty of praise."

MEMBERS readily accept responsibility as owners of a dog as they learn proper care and feeding of the animal, club leaders observed. They like to show their pets and demonstrate best methods of grooming and training.

One girl trained dogs for the blind. "You can make training a game instead of work," she declared. "The key to successful training is first to win your dog's confidence."

"At times I felt like giving up," she said, "but when I thought about some blind youngster waiting for a dog, I had to keep on working."

Some 4-H members have helped to finance a college education by raising and selling pedigreed puppies. Also, careers in veterinary medicine or other fields of work with animals have resulted from experiences in a 4-H dog project.

Each year outstanding club members are honored and receive awards from Ralston Purina. The 4-H'er completing the best dog project in the state will get an engraved wrist watch, and will be eligible for one of 10 trips offered national winners to the National 4-H club Congress in Chicago the week after Thanksgiving. Up to four members in the county can win medals.

All award recipients are selected by the Cooperative Extension Service which supervises the program.

Yank Still Awaits Verdict in Mexico

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP)—Each day seems to grow longer for Dykes Askew Simmons as he awaits final word as to whether he'll have to pay for a crime he claims he didn't commit.

The tall Texan, first American ever sentenced legally to death in Mexico, has been waiting for five years in a cell in the penitentiary.

Mexico's Supreme Court has had his case under review the last 13 months and a decision is expected before long.

There's only a slim chance the 36-year-old Fort Worth crane operator will face a Mexican firing squad, the sentence handed down for the slaying of three members of a prominent Monterrey family Oct. 12, 1959. Although Nuevo Leon State, of which Monterrey is the capital, retains the death sentence as maximum punishment it hasn't been applied here in over 40 years.

There is a probability his sentence may be commuted to 20 years, and a possibility he may go free.

Discussing these chances, Simmons said: "I'll accept nothing except full vindication and freedom. I'm innocent. I just drove into Mexico. I was barely in the country when it happened."

Doubts about his involvement were buried under the initial avalanche of horror and hysteria that swept this community of nearly a million people when the bullet-riddled bodies of Marta Villagomez, 21, and her brother, Juan Manuel, 14; and their dying sister, Hilda, 19, were found crumpled in a car near here. They had been returning from Laredo, Tex., with their elder brother, Raul, when their car broke down. Raul hitched a ride into a nearby town, leaving the three behind.

Hilda, who lived for 17 days after the shooting, said an American drove up after Raul had left and tried to start the car. When that failed, he offered the three a ride into town. When Hilda refused, the American became enraged and, claiming he was a bandit, pulled out a weapon and started firing.

Simmons had entered Mexico through the Laredo day of the shooting and was arrested three days later near Monterrey. On her deathbed, Hilda had identified Simmons as the assailant.

The first conviction, in March 1961, was turned back for retrial when a court ruled Hilda's identification of Simmons improper. The second conviction, with the dying girl's testimony stricken, followed Dec. 12, 1962. Upheld by the State Supreme Court, the case went to the nation's highest tribunal last August.

Simmons' biggest complaint

'Fear of Government' Laid to Republicans

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Robert Sweeney of Cleveland, Democratic candidate for Ohio congressman-at-large, says the Republicans have been trying to instill "a fear of government" in the people. He says it is sheer nonsense.

Sweeney made the remarks Tuesday before speaking to the Democratic Federated Women's Club of Portsmouth. Regarding Social Security, he said Democrats "see nothing socialistic about giving our senior citizens a reasonable allowance. We Democrats believe in the Jeffersonian ideal that the government should concern itself with the problems of the people it serves."

4-H is a national program for farm and city boys and girls between 10 and 19 years of age.

is that "our foreign service has done absolutely nothing" about his problem. But U.S. consulate officials here periodically visit him and check his needs. Simmons looks at it this way: "It's just like the Dreyfus case. Just change the charge from espionage to murder and it fits me perfectly, especially the part in the beginning where the family is told not to say or do anything, not to ask for help and that everything will be okay in the end."

The story of the court-martialed French artillery officer, Alfred Dreyfus, is his favorite piece of literature, says Simmons — "My mother gave it to me. I've read it eight times."

There is a probability his sentence may be commuted to 20 years, and a possibility he may go free.

Discussing these chances, Simmons said: "I'll accept nothing except full vindication and freedom. I'm innocent. I just drove into Mexico. I was barely in the country when it happened."

Doubts about his involvement were buried under the initial avalanche of horror and hysteria that swept this community of nearly a million people when the bullet-riddled bodies of Marta Villagomez, 21, and her brother, Juan Manuel, 14, and their dying sister, Hilda, 19, were found crumpled in a car near here. They had been returning from Laredo, Tex., with their elder brother, Raul, when their car broke down. Raul hitched a ride into a nearby town, leaving the three behind.

Hilda, who lived for 17 days after the shooting, said an American drove up after Raul had left and tried to start the car. When that failed, he offered the three a ride into town. When Hilda refused, the American became enraged and, claiming he was a bandit, pulled out a weapon and started firing.

Simmons had entered Mexico through the Laredo day of the shooting and was arrested three days later near Monterrey. On her deathbed, Hilda had identified Simmons as the assailant.

The first conviction, in March 1961, was turned back for retrial when a court ruled Hilda's identification of Simmons improper. The second conviction, with the dying girl's testimony stricken, followed Dec. 12, 1962. Upheld by the State Supreme Court, the case went to the nation's highest tribunal last August.

Simmons' biggest complaint

'Fear of Government' Laid to Republicans

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Robert Sweeney of Cleveland, Democratic candidate for Ohio congressman-at-large, says the Republicans have been trying to instill "a fear of government" in the people. He says it is sheer nonsense.

Sweeney made the remarks Tuesday before speaking to the Democratic Federated Women's Club of Portsmouth. Regarding Social Security, he said Democrats "see nothing socialistic about giving our senior citizens a reasonable allowance. We Democrats believe in the Jeffersonian ideal that the government should concern itself with the problems of the people it serves."

4-H is a national program for farm and city boys and girls between 10 and 19 years of age.

is that "our foreign service has done absolutely nothing" about his problem. But U.S. consulate officials here periodically visit him and check his needs. Simmons looks at it this way: "It's just like the Dreyfus case. Just change the charge from espionage to murder and it fits me perfectly, especially the part in the beginning where the family is told not to say or do anything, not to ask for help and that everything will be okay in the end." The story of the court-martialed French artillery officer, Alfred Dreyfus, is his favorite piece of literature, says Simmons — "My mother gave it to me. I've read it eight times."

MOTOROLA

In our opinion, you haven't seen color TV at its best until you've seen Motorola's 23" Rectangular tube color TV. Come in or call us for a personal demonstration.

What a difference Motorola's new rectangular-shaped color TV tube makes! You'll marvel at the colors . . . the ease with which you can tune in color programs . . . the crisp, sharp picture. You'll feel much more at ease looking at the rectangular-shaped picture—a more natural shape than round tube color sets. And yet, the cabinets are slim and trim because this new tube is approximately 5 inches shorter than conventional round color TV tubes.

But we warn you, you'd better provision up because the neighbors will be dropping in often to oh and ah with you! Come in for a personal demonstration.

MOTOROLA RECTANGULAR COLOR TV offers you all these advantages:

- Motorola's own "hand-wired chassis" is precision crafted with modern hand and dip soldering for circuit connections of high reliability.
- Superb period and contemporary cabinetry including several models with cabinetry by Drexel to match their famous furniture groupings.
- A Motorola "full year guarantee" on all tubes and parts. We will arrange to have any component proven defective in normal use replaced or repaired. Labor extra.

4-H Members Display Pride In Their Dog Care Projects

The ears of almost 25,000 4-H Club members across the country are sensitively attuned to the "rruff, rrruff" of their canine friends.

The 4-H Dog Care and Training awards program, now in its sixth year, is attracting a great many urban youngsters and those in rural areas as well, according to the National 4-H Service Committee. It is sponsored by the Ralston Purina Company.

Obedience training is taught, and the young dog handlers soon realize that the animal is an individual. As one 4-H'er put it: "Each dog is different. Some are shy and need coaxing. Others are ready to go and need stricter discipline. Whatever the dog is like, success only comes from hard work and plenty of praise."

MEMBERS readily accept responsibility as owners of a dog as they learn proper care and feeding of the animal, club

'Unwanted' Hurler Helps Cards Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Barney Schultz has been pitching for 20 years with 18 clubs in 12 different leagues. And no one has paid much interest.

They didn't this year either. "There was a time when we were asking other clubs if they were interested in Barney," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane Tuesday night.

"But no one paid any attention to us."

So Keane kept the 38-year-old knuckleball specialist — and suddenly he's turned into a key figure in the Cardinals' drive toward their first National League pennant since 1946.

Schultz balled out a Cardinal starter for the fifth straight game Tuesday, preserving Ray Sadecki's 20th victory as St. Louis extended its winning streak to seven with a 4-2 victory over floundering Philadelphia.

That pulled the Cardinals into a flat-footed tie for first place with the Cincinnati Reds, who had their winning streak snapped at nine games in a 2-0 loss to Bob Friend and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Reds and Cardinals each have four games remaining — and the way Keane figures it, Schultz may be in every one.

"He can pitch nine days in a row if they're short stints," said Keane.

Schultz' big-league record is 19-18 but it's what he's done for the Cardinals that has impressed Keane. Schultz has been in 28 games since late July, pitching 47 2-3 innings and compiling an eye-opening 1.63 earned run average. In these all-important last five games, he's allowed one hit.

The Phillies used six pitchers and 22 players altogether in an attempt to weed off their ninth consecutive defeat. But they couldn't do it and remained 1-1/2 games behind with only three left to play.

Elsewhere, San Francisco remained mathematically alive in the pennant race by edging Houston 5-4 in 11 innings on Matty Alou's first homer in exactly two years, the Chicago Cubs edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 and Milwaukee downed the New York Mets 7-6.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox closed to within 2 1/2 games of the first-place New York Yankees edging the Los Angeles Angels 2-1 and Kansas City defeated Minnesota 7-6 in 15 innings. Every one else was rained out.

Roundtrip Channel Swim Is Thwarted

DOVER, England (AP) — Great Andersen, a 37-year-old Los Alamitos, Calif., school teacher, was forced by heavy seas Wednesday to give up her attempt to swim across the English Channel both ways nonstop.

She surrendered to the elements after 24 hours of swimming. Miss Andersen already had completed a fast England to France crossing and was well on her way back to England's shores when she had to quit. A boat was bringing her back to Folkestone.

San Diego Back Slated To Play Tilt in Brace

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — The San Diego Chargers plan to activate defensive back Dick Harris for their Saturday night game with the New York Jets, but he'll be playing with his left arm in a brace.

Harris broke his wrist in an exhibition game Aug. 22 and has since been on the injured deferred list.

THE BRAVES — Logan Elm's football team will play host to Teays Valley Friday. The Braves, pictured above, are undefeated in three starts this season. The Vikings have lost two games and won one.

Large Crowd Expected

Logan Elm, Teays Valley Ready for Friday's Tilt

Undefeated Logan Elm and twice-beaten Teays Valley clash Friday on the Braves' gridiron to renew a county rivalry started last year.

Teays Valley will field a squad crippled by injuries to key players. The Braves boast what could be one of the best teams ever at the school.

The Vikings' best runner, fullback John Smith, is out the remainder of the season. He suffered a broken arm in last week's game with Carroll.

Dave Reese, veteran quarterback for the Blue and Gold Viking horde, is a doubtful starter.

A SENIOR, Reese sustained a leg muscle injury in the game against Circleville two weeks ago. He has not fully recovered, according to Marion Waits, Viking coach.

Also sidelined for the contest is the Vikings' ace punter,

Westfall Grid Tilt Moved to Teays Valley

The Westfall-Madison South football game will be played on the Teays Valley High School gridiron, it was announced today by Westfall Executive Head Jud Lanman.

Originally scheduled to be played on the Mustangs' athletic field, the site has been changed because lights have not yet been erected.

Asa Elsea's gridders have played two games this year, winning one and losing one. It is the first year for the grid sport at Westfall.

Michigan State QB Is Benched

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The playing career of Dick Proebstle, a senior from Canton, Ohio, and Michigan State's No. 2 football quarterback, has been ended by a head concussion suffered in a team scrimmage Sept. 19.

Coach Duffy Daugherty and team physician James Feurig said Tuesday they have decided to sideline Proebstle. Dr. Feurig said Proebstle would suffer no permanent injury but it will take him several months to recover. Daugherty said he hopes to work Proebstle into the freshman coaching staff.

Castoff NFL Gridder Plays Angry Ball in United Loop

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sonny Gibbs, the former passing great from Texas Christian University, was an angry young quarterback when he was dropped from the roster of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

Now he's just one of the many angry young men playing in the United Football League, pro football's toughest minor league.

When the Cowboys told Gibbs they wanted him to spend this season in the UFL for experience, his first reaction was, "I just want to get my money, go back to TCU and forget about pro football."

But Gibbs, in the second year of a three-year, no-cut Cowboy contract, soon changed his mind and joined the Toledo Tornadoes.

He may have assuaged some of his wrath when he tossed touchdown passes of 56 and 72 yards in his first UFL game, but he also learned he was in a tough league when blitzing linemen dumped him on the first pass play he called.

A "name" player like Gibbs was a big addition to the UFL, but there are plenty of other well-known recent college stars on the other UFL teams—Charleston (W.Va.), Wheeling, Canton, Joliet, Grand Rapids, Montreal and Indianapolis.

Gibbs' rival quarterbacks for instance, include Ron Miller (Wisconsin) of Charleston, Ron Degravio (Purdue) of Indianapolis, Bob Brodhead (Duke) and Jake Jacobs (Arizona State) of Canton and Dave Mathieson (Washington State) of Wheeling.

Gibbs and several other UFL players are drawing big league money. But most are playing for the league minimum salary of $50 a game and working at full-time jobs during the week. They're all out to show big league scouts that when they were cut it was the biggest mistake since the Pittsburgh Steelers told Johnny Unitas he didn't have the stuff.

The many UFL players who have received second chances with big league clubs and the few who have made good on those second chances keep the dreams alive. NFL linemen Stan Szurek of Cleveland, Chuck Hinton of Pittsburgh and Dave Manders of Dallas were in the UFL last season.

The UFL's founder and president, Columbus attorney George Gareff, believes his 4-year-old league will lose its "minor" status in about four more years and be considered the country's third major pro football league, although he concedes it will still be playing a brand of ball a step below that of the NFL and American Football League.

Injured Green Bay QB To See Action Sunday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay quarterback Bart Starr, who was injured in Monday night's 14-10 National Football League victory over the Lions in Detroit, is expected to play in Sunday's game with the Minnesota Vikings.

"He aggravated an old shoulder injury," said Coach Vince Lombardi. "But it's his left shoulder. That's not so bad. He will be okay by Sunday."

Syracuse Star Halfback Honored

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Floyd Little, a dazzling sophomore halfback for Syracuse University, was named Back of the Week by The Associated Press today.

He romped for five touchdowns against Kansas last Saturday in what was hailed as one of the greatest one-man performances in Syracuse football history. Heralded as a worthy successor to Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis, Little wore No. 44 on his jersey as he ripped the Jayhawk defense to shreds in a 38-6 triumph. That was the number All-Americans Brown and Davis wore in their Syracuse campus hero days.

Bucks, Texas Picked To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Football, says Coach Bill Tate of Wake Forest, is a game played by men endowed with pride and good habits.

Forecasters have pride, too, but some of them have bad habits — such as not believing what they see. That's the reason for an average of 717 in last week's picks.

With as much pride as ever, but hopefully, with better habits here are this week's winners:

Texas over Army: The Longhorns' quarterbacking corps is depleted but Army doesn't have enough troops to win this skirmish.

Southern California over Michigan State: The Spartans are big but slow. At least, they will be too slow to catch the likes of Mike Garrett.

Auburn over Kentucky: There are both hills and valleys in Kentucky. Last week the Wildcats were on a hill as they knocked off Mississippi. This time, Jimmy Side will put them in the valley of despair.

Arkansas over Texas Christian: The Arkansas line is too powerful for the Frogs.

Michigan over Navy: Even if Roger Staubach, Navy's great quarterback, was at his physical best the Wolverines would be a slight choice. And with Staubach limping, there is no other choice.

Purdue over Notre Dame: The inspired Irish were fortunate in playing a below par Wisconsin team in their opener. The Boilermakers are tough.

Duke over Tulane: Quarterback Scotty Glacken and end Chuck Drulis give Duke a potent battery.

Penn State over Oregon: Rarely does a Rip Engle coached team lose three in a row and twice-beaten Penn State now plays its home opener.

Ohio State over Indiana: They don't give you a uniform at Ohio State unless you are 6-2 and weigh at least 200. Indiana still a year away from the top in the Big Ten.

Illinois over Northwestern: Dick Butkus, Illinois linebacker, is as good as he was last year when he was All-America. Tom Myers is Northwestern's only threat.

North Carolina State over Maryland: State is one of the surprises of the young season.

Alabama over Vanderbilt: Vandy has a fair defense but no offense; Alabama has Joe Namath.

Skiping over the others in a hurry:

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel will return as manager of the New York Mets for 1965, the Mets announced Tuesday.

Bing Devine, who resigned as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals last month, was named as assistant to President George M. Weiss of the Mets and Eddie Stanky, who quit as Cardinals director of player development a few days ago, was given a similar position with the Mets.

In two other changes in the Mets' front office, Johnny Murphy and Jim Thompson were named vice presidents of the club.

Stengel, 74 years old, has managed the Mets since 1962. He joined the National League club after the New York Yankees fired him as manager after the 1960 World Series, which the Yanks lost to Pittsburgh.

Devine, who was general manager of the Cardinals from November, 1957, until Aug. 7 this year, is known as one of baseball's most successful traders.

Texas, 1963 national football champions, compiled 215 points while allowing 65 against 10 Southwest Conference rivals last fall.

Ralph Chancey, a veteran of 14 years on the Tennessee football staff, is West Virginia's new backfield coach under Gene Corum.

News of World in Brief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The "Spirit of Columbus", the single-engine Cessna used by Mrs. Jerrie Mock for her history-making flight around the world, will be donated to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D.C.

Russell Mock, whose wife became the first woman to fly solo around the globe, said today the craft has been sold to the Wichita, Kan. Chamber of Commerce which in turn will present it to the Institute.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living declined a tenth of a per cent in August from the July record high, the Labor Department reported today.

This follows the usual trend for August, reflecting lower prices for fruits and vegetables, automobiles and women's apparel, the department said.

The consumer price index of 108.2 for August was 1 per cent higher than for the same month a year ago and compared with 108.3 in July.

The index figure means that in August it cost $10.82 to buy items that could be bought for $10 in the 1957-59 period, used as a base of 100 in the price calculations.

BUKAVU, The Congo (AP)—Congolese army headquarters in Bukavu claimed its troops killed 30 rebels Tuesday 20 miles west of the Kivu Province capital.

It was the first confirmation of rumors that rebel tribesmen again were moving on the eastern Congo city. A rebel attack on Bukavu was repulsed last month. Many whites have fled to neighboring Rwanda.

Military authorities said the clash with the rebels resulted from a probing action by the Communist-backed insurgents and that another attack was likely.

BONN, Germany (AP) — Communist East Germany wants a long-term credit of several hundred million marks from West Germany, an Economic Ministry spokesman said Tuesday.

Other Bonn officials said the East German regime threatened reprisals against the big trade between West Germany and West Berlin if its demands are not met.

The spokesman would not specify the amount sought but said the Communists want it to run for 8 to 10 years. The business newspaper Handelsblatt put the figure at 500 million marks, about $125 million.

Trade between the two parts of divided Germany amounts to $500 million a year and has been increasing.

The United States and some other members of the North Atlantic alliance oppose credits of more than five years to Communist nations.

LONDON (AP) — An Atlantic alliance strike force steaming toward the Bay of Biscay for the final phase of NATO war games says Soviet ships have relaxed their watch on the naval exercise.

"To our knowledge only one Russian trawler and one submarine are still shadowing the force," U.S. Navy Capt. Frederick C. Turner, operations officer of the Blue Strike fleet, told newsmen Tuesday night.

The task force — 55 ships, 80 planes and 21,000 men — has been carrying out simulated attacks with both conventional and nuclear weapons against targets in Norway, Denmark and Britain.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Police broadcast urgent warnings throughout Sweden today following the theft of enough poison to kill thousands.

The burglars, who also stole a morphine solution, took more than two pounds of pilocarpini hydrochloridum from a pharmacy laboratory at Sundsvall, 190 miles north of Stockholm. The poison, soluble in water, is used in eye drops for glaucoma sufferers.

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party Paper, today reported the rescue of five Soviet sailors trapped in the submerged cabin of an overturned barge for nearly nine hours.

Pravda said three members of a navy rescue team and a border guard had been decorated for heroism.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Goeran Gentele, director of Sweden's Royal Opera, says President Johnson wants to borrow ballet dancer Erik Bruhn for a White House performance Oct. 5, but he won't let Bruhn go.

"The (U.S.) Embassy has called me four or five times and I have also been contacted by the Swedish foreign ministry," Gentele said Tuesday. "But I think it is more important to us that Erik Bruhn stays here. It is our responsibility toward Swedish opera lovers to keep him there."

NEW YORK (AP) — Lisa Howard, a news correspondent for the American Broadcasting Co., has been relieved of all her assignments by the network until the end of the political campaign.

The network said Tuesday that Miss Howard had "chosen to participate publicly in partisan political activities contrary to the long-established ABC news policy."

Miss Howard, whose ABC duties included a daily five-minute news show, is a member of a group of New York Democrats campaigning for the reelection of Sen. Kenneth Keating, a Republican, who is opposed by former Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Stephen Smith substituted for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, at the opening of a new Young Democrats club in the Bronx, and apologized for her presence.

"I know you were expecting Ethel but that's the story of my life," said Jean Smith, youngest of the late President John F. Kennedy's sisters, Tuesday.

"They always want Jackie first, then Ethel, then Pat Lawford but they usually get me."

NEW YORK (AP) — "He has the most beautiful physique I've ever seen, esthetically speaking," says Jayne Mansfield.

The blonde actress was talking to newsmen about her new husband, director Matt Cimber. They returned to New York Tuesday from Mexico, where they were married Sunday.

It was the third marriage for Miss 31-year-old mother of four, and the first for Cimber, 28.

Mary Glitt and Judy Welsh of Mary's Beauty Salon, Ashville, attended the Festival of Fall Fashions during the weekend at the Columbus Plaza. Sponsor of the show was the Columbus unit of the Ohio Cosmetologist Assn.

Mrs. Glitt was educational chairman and emcee for the guest artist, David Pressley, Royal Oak, Mich.

Various hair and wig contests were held. Wanda Shaeffer, Lancaster, won one of the contests which featured a model with a hair style depicting some prominent factor of Ohio. Modelling for the winner was Mrs. Larry Gordon, daughter-in-law of Circleville Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

New fall and winter hair styles were also presented during the two-day event. Special guest was Mrs. Jerry Mock.

Indian custom in ancient Peru required a prospective bridegroom to steal a garment of his beloved. If her parents declined to steal the garment back, the couple became engaged.

Some Acreage Gets Grazing Date Advance

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1964 feed grain and voluntary wheat programs in Pickaway County will be permitted to graze these areas beginning Oct. 1. Galen D. Mowery, chairman of the ASC County Committee advised that prior approval will not be necessary.

He stressed, however, that this authorization does not permit harvesting of hay on wheat and feed grain program diverted acres. Any farmer who decides to harvest hay through Oct. 31, 1964, must obtain prior approval from the ASCS office and payment deductions will be made for such privilege.

Those farmers who have diverted acreage under the conservation reserve program may request permission at the ASCS office to graze and harvest hay on such acreage through Oct. 31. However, reductions will be made in program payments.

This authorization is intended to alleviate a severe shortage of forage in the interest of maintaining present livestock herds. Provision is made for pro-rata refunds where deductions have already been made from diversion payments to farmers.

Aerial War Room Tested

Reconnaissance To Be Direct

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A battlefield command and control center carried by plane which can enable a military commander to conduct combat operations by seeing the action has been delivered to the Air Force.

The war room, designed and built by a division of Ling-Temco-Vought Corp., is being evaluated by the Tactical Air Command, the company said today.

Air Force officials said they hope the tests will show that direct reconnaissance of a battlefield will give commanders a continuous picture of the enemy's actions.

The room, which will fit into a C130 plane, was built in 98 days under a $2.4-million contract.

The command center will permit officers to watch action on television. It also will store the information for a playback as needed.

The center also would display both sides' order of battle, and present and future weather conditions.

The commander would also be in constant contact with all echelons of battle, aircraft and ships.

The unit probably will be integrated with the "see fast" reconnaissance gathering concept now under development at Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina. This concept makes use of RB66 reconnaissance aircraft over enemy zones.

The information gained in the system would also be instantly available to commanders on the ground.

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Was the Week That Was," after a three-month summer vacation, returned to NBC Tuesday night full of vigor, strong opinions and shooting wisecracks in all directions.

Chief target was politics. It seemed to this viewer that the young satirists made no effort to conceal their political sympathies. Except for a crack about President Johnson's fast automobile driving, the Democratic candidate had gentle treatment — and his running mate was not even named at all.

But a broad stream of vitriolic comment was aimed at his Republican opponent plus a sarcastic commentary without any humor at all about vice-presidential candidate William E. Miller.

When it looked away from politics, the program galloped all over. It kidded the huge corps of television newsmen covering world trouble spots microphone in hand. It made merciless fun of smug suburbanite parents who permit their teen-age children to drink. It had Phyllis Newman sing a grisly little song mourning a vacation spent taking snapshots abroad when there were such interesting possibilities at home — riots in Rochester, looting in New York, stabbings and muggings.

A commercial interruption of the live show was a paid political advertisement for the Democratic party after which "TW3 girl" Nancy Ames sang an announcement that the next couple of shows have been pre-empted for paid Republican broadcasts and suggesting, in doggerel, that the GOP in this way could keep the show off the air until after Election Day.

It is nice to have a free-wheeling, opinionated show which tries for satire and humorous comment, but one still wishes the writers would try harder for wit and humor and exert less effort in attempting to shock.

"Combat" on ABC is an awfully noisy show with all the shooting, but it is also a very well produced show and its scripts usually are above average. Tuesday night's show was a story about an assault on a German position in which three men were killed and of the recriminations later. It depicts war as a painful, exhausting dirty business, and the acting — particularly that of star Vic Morrow, is valid and interesting.

Recommended tonight: "Green Mansions", NBC, 9-11 EDT — 1959 motion picture starring Audrey Hepburn and Anthony Perkins; "The Danny Kaye Show," CBS, 10-11 — Phil Silvers is the guest star.

NORTHWESTERN & NORTHEASTERN OHIO — Fair and cool tonight, low 38-42. Thursday mostly sunny and warmer.

OHIO FIVE-DAY FORECASTS

Temperatures will average about 5 degrees above normal. Representative normal high and low temperatures are Cleveland 67-45, Columbus 71-47 and Cincinnati 74-51. Warming trend through Saturday and not so Sunday and Monday. Light showers are indicated for Saturday with about one-tenth of an inch of rainfall.

Homemade Gun Kills Pandora Youth, 15

OTTAWA, Ohio (AP)—A 15-year-old Pandora boy who had a hobby of making guns was killed accidentally Tuesday night when one of them went off, the Putnam County sheriff said. Killed instantly by a large slug between the eyes was Michael Shaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaney.

Sheriff James Ruhe said the boy had a workshop on the first floor of his home where he made his guns. Ruhe said the boy fired homemade slugs from the guns by putting powder in the barrels and exploding the powder with caps.

Pretty 'Enemy Agent' Infiltrates Barry Train

ABOARD GOLDWATER CAMPAIGN TRAIN IN OHIO (AP)—An "enemy agent" managed easily to infiltrate Sen. Barry Goldwater's campaign train as it rolled through Ohio Tuesday. But the agent's presence didn't go undetected for long.

The agent was a pretty miss of 23 years who identified herself as Moira O'Connor of New York.

The Republican presidential nominee's press secretary, Paul F. Wagner, said Miss O'Connor managed to infiltrate the Goldwater forces by signing aboard the train as a reporter.

Assistant press secretary Vic Gold saw a trail of mimeographed broadsides called "The Whistle Stop" listing midwestern newspapers that have declared themselves opposed to Goldwater.

The broadsides were placed in front of each compartment of the 18-car train.

Gold strolled along picking up each broadside until he caught up with the pretty culprit. Miss O'Connor then was asked to leave the whistle-stop train at Parkersburg, W. Va. She did—suitcase and all.

Republicans then mimeographed their own edition of "The Whistle Stop," which they said was under new, steamlined ownership.

"This isn't the first time the Democrats have missed the train this year," the Republican version said. The Democratic National Committee spent $225 to get their infiltrator aboard, it said, and the money will help finance Goldwater's midwestern swing.

The Democratic National Committee in Washington said Miss O'Connor has done occasional volunteer work but has no official connection with the committee.

The committee said it knew nothing about the incident other than what it read in the press.

The whereabouts of Miss O'Connor after she left the train were unknown, although it was rumored she followed the train to Cincinnati.
